INTRODUCTION

I have been asked by the author to prepare a short introduction to the Foote Family History now in press.

I comply with this request with pleasure for the opportunity it gives me to express my gratitude to the author for having undertaken this work and carried it forward to completion.

We all know what such a work means to the author and compiler. To some extent it may be a labor of love, but, in the main, it requires infinite patience and long continued painstaking labor. Few, indeed, have the courage to undertake such a work, even where there is hope of some substantial financial reward. The sale of this book will be too limited to justify any such hope, and we must credit our author with other and more disinterested motives.

The descendants of Nathaniel Foote, the settler, now living, appreciate to the fullest extent the debt of gratitude which the family owes to Nathaniel Goodwin, who in 1849 rescued from fast approaching oblivion their pedigree and made possible the present work. Even so will the remote descendants of the members of the present generation hold in highest esteem the memory of the author of this book for doing a similar and equally important work for their benefit. And such must be his chief reward.

Accuracy is no doubt the chief desideratum in a work of this kind, but no amount of care and labor has been found sufficient in similar works to insure against all errors. Until the work appears, we cannot, of course, know how far our author has been successful in this respect, but no matter with what care and accuracy the author may have done his part of the work, we may expect to find errors due to the carelessness or mistakes of the hundreds of different individuals, of all the different degrees of accuracy and carelessness, upon whom he has been compelled to rely for much of his information.

Let us hope that on the whole this work will be found to compare favorably in respect of accuracy with other genealogical books.

I venture to suggest to all who may discover errors that they send a correction to the author promptly for use in the first new edition that may be required.

NATHANIEL FOOTE.

PREFACE

With very few exceptions, the Footes in America all descended from either Nathaniel Foote, of Colchester, England, who came to Watertown, Mass., about 1630, or Pasco Foote, who settled in Salem, Mass., soon after, or from Richard Foote, of Cornwall, England, and later of Stafford Co., Va. That the first two were nearly related, if not brothers, there can be very little doubt.

The following legend has been handed down by many different sources: "Three brothers came from England in the brig 'Ann,' landed at Plymouth, Mass., Nathaniel, Pasco and John (or Caleb). Nathaniel settled in Watertown, Mass.; Pasco settled in Salem, Mass., and John (or Caleb) died without issue."

Emigration to New England languished for ten years after the arrival of the "Mayflower," and until the expedition by John Winthrop and Sir Richard Saltonstall, which numbered about 1,500, came over in the summer of 1630, very few colonists came over.

It is very difficult to connect these emigrants with their ancestors in the Mother Country.

In Burke's Commoners, Vol. I., page 372, is an account of the Foote Family in Kent. It is stated that the family possessed large estates in the county of Cornwall prior to 1420. Thomas Foote was Lord Mayor of London in 1650, and there are many others of the family who have distinguished themselves in the Mother Country. There are ten different armorial bearings, granted to as many different branches of the family who distinguished themselves. While it is very probable that this is all one family, yet we have not the positive proof at present.

There is a tradition that our ancestors in England lived at the foot of a mountain at the time when surnames were adopted, and they called them Foote. The name was sometimes spelled Fotte or Foot. The latter is in use at the present time by a few members of the family.

We have been compelled by lack of space to leave out several parts of the book that we had prepared for it, including lists of Revolutionary soldiers from the various States by the name of Foote, Pensioners of the Revolutionary War, College Graduates by the name of Foote, and biographical sketches of prominent members of the English branch. This material will be available for future use.

In addition to the several thousand Footes here recorded, we have received a number of family records that we could not definitely connect with any of the several branches of the family. These records are on file, and if they can later (as I have no doubt many of them can) prove their connections, we shall be glad to make the record.

In compiling this work, I have searched all of the Genealogies and Historical Works that I could find, including those at the Wordsworth Historical Library and State Library at Hartford, Ct., Vermont State Library, the Billings and Carnegie Library at Burlington, Vt., and Middlebury College Library, Middlebury, Vt.

The family data of Nathaniel Foote in Nathaniel Goodwin's Genealogy of 1849 is herein included. Without this aid it would have been impossible, at this date, to make a work as complete as this. We have also included, by permission, Miss Brainard's pamphlet and that of Rev. J. B. Foote's, on descendants of John Foote, and a large part of the data has been received direct from the living members of the family, and yet we realize that there are descendants who have not been reported. If you, dear reader, are one, and can trace your descent from any of these branches, do not fail to write at once, enclosing all the data and information you have, to A. W. Foote, Middlebury, Vt., and it matters not how many years have rolled away, someone will file the papers and it will be printed in the future in the Second Volume of this work.

The numbers in parentheses following the name of a father are the numbers of his Father, Grandfather, Great-grandfather, and so forth, and number 1 is understood to be Nathaniel Foote, the Settler. By counting the numbers you will ascertain the generation. The numbers following the name of the wife of a son are the numbers of their children.

By this system the following generations can easily be recorded and printed in the Second Volume. The children of a daughter are indicated by figures (1), her grandchildren by letters (a), the great-grandchildren by Roman numerals (i), the great-great-grandchildren by Roman numerals and figures (i1). A name in parentheses indicates the maiden name of the mother. When the birth-place is not given it is understood to be at the place given as the residence of the parents.

The following are explanations of the abbreviations used: Abt., about; ae., aged; b., born; bldg., building; ch., children; Ch., Church; dau., daughter; d., died or dead; m., married; n. f. k., nothing further known; p., page; res., residence, resided, or resides; unm., unmarried; s. p., sine prole (without issue); wid., widow or widower; yr., year.

I take this opportunity to thank the many friends who have assisted me in gathering this mass of family data. Miss Lucy A. Brainard, who, since publishing a pamphlet in 1886 on her own branch, has added a large amount of data in connection with her own great work, the Brainard-Brainerd Genealogy; James Hall Foote, N. Y.; John Crocker Foote, Belvidere, Ill.; Harry Foote, Springville, N. Y.; Dr. Winfield

Scott Hall, Chicago, Ill.; Rev. J. B. Foote and Wife, Syracuse, N. Y.; Rev. E. J. Foote, Trenton, N. J.; Caroline Foote Marsh, New York City; Miss J. M. Foote, Hobart, N. Y.; J. A. Foote, Pasadena, Cal.; Miss Charlotte M. Tuttle, Boston, Mass.; Chas. H. Bigelow, Findlay, O.; David Thompson Foote, Bridgeport, Ct.; Mrs. Elizabeth Jenkins, New Haven, Ct.; Misses Essie and Ellen Foote, Cleveland, O.; Chas. N. Foote, Lee, Mass.; Mrs. O. F. Sheldon, Ripon, Wis.; Mrs. Antoinette Burgoyne, Bridgeport, Mich.; Mrs. Augusta Foote, Philadelphia, Pa.; Rev. Lemuel Foote, Rochester, N. Y., and many others too numerous to mention.

And now, dear friends, get acquainted, write to the cousin you have lost track of or, perhaps, never knew of before, and give your own number, and if you receive such a letter, answer it at once, before you forget it.

The social pleasures derived from the Wethersfield meeting, and from the correspondence all over the country, have more than compensated me for the work.

THE NATHANIEL FOOTE MONUMENT.

While we know that the remains of Nathaniel Foote, the Settler, and many of his family rest in the graveyard back of the old church of Wethersfield, yet it is a lamentable fact that there is not a stone in the whole yard with the name of FOOTE on it. The stones have either been taken away or used for foundations many years ago, and we are not able to mark the exact locations of their graves.

But we can locate the old Foote homestead lot, and this property extended out into what is now a public park at the foot of Broad Street, and it is the purpose of the association to erect a monument to Nathaniel Foote and his family on this public property and at the same time mark the original property.

We hope to dedicate this monument in June, 1908.

FOOTE COAT OF ARMS

Arg. (silver), a chevron Sable (black), and in the dexter quarter a trefoil of the second (black) crest an oak tree proper (natural color). There are ten different Coats of Arms recorded in the College of Heralds to members of the Foote Family; five of these have the chevron and trefoil in the dexter quarter, with different crests. Maj. L. R. D. Fayling, Gen. Manager of the International Bibliophile Society of New York, writing under date of May 7, 1907, says:

“I have not the slightest doubt but that you have the authentic Foote Arms. In Europe, frequently the ‘arms’ of a family are officially ‘confirmed’ by the ‘College of Heralds’ simply on the strength of a family having ‘borne’ such a ‘coat’ for three or more generations.”

The above Coat of Arms has been used by the Foote Family in America for two hundred and fifty years (250), as shown by the following letters:

From Dr. Nathaniel Foote, of Colchester, Ct., dated Mar. 11, 1907.

More than sixty-five (65) years ago my grandmother, Abigail Foote (No. 245), gave me a picture or fine engraving of the Foote Coat of Arms, about three inches square, which she told me was given to her by her grandfather, Nathaniel Foote (No. 25). In 1864 I had a steel plate engraved of the Coat of Arms, reduced in size, as shown on the letter head I sent you. The engravers who made it for me, and the printers who printed the stationery, are now deceased.

Extract copied from letter of Daniel Elisha Foote.

Jirah Isham Foote, Esq.

Belvidere, Ill., Dec. 11, 1894.

Dear Sir,—In regard to the Foote Coat of Arms, I have in my possession what is said to be the original, and of which the one owned by the late Rev. Henry Ward Beecher (See No. 804, 8) is a copy. I also have a paper in the handwriting of my great-grandfather, Isaac Foote (No. 247). This paper contains the following statement: “The following is the pedigree of ancient family of Footes, taken from authentic history. It appears that some time between A. D. 1630 and 1635, three brothers by the names of Nathaniel, Caleb and Pasco came to this country from Colchester, in England, and settled as follows: Pasco settled at Salem, Mass., where there is now some of his descendants. Caleb is supposed to have died in Boston, without issue. Nathaniel, the eldest, first settled at Watertown, Mass., in 1636. He, with a number of others, removed to Wethersfield, Ct., and were among the first that settled there. He had two sons, Nathaniel and Robert. Robert settled in the town of Branford, in the county of New Haven. Nathaniel, the eldest, who settled in Wethersfield, married Margaret Bliss, of Springfield, Mass. He was principal agent in getting the town of Colchester located and incorporated, and gave it the name of Colchester (the name of the town of his nativity).”

The following is the King James tradition of the Foote Coat of Arms, which I have heard from my early youth, and has been generally believed by my relations and ancestors, so far as I am informed. It was copied by my mother from a writing of Hon. Isaac Foote (No. 247), and was found with the Coat of Arms among his effects:

“A Coat of Arms was bestowed on the family of Footes’ for the following reasons: In a war between the English and the Scots, King James was in imminent danger of being killed or taken prisoner, and James Foote, a trusty officer, escorted him to a certain wood, where was a large oak tree, the trunk whereof was hollow, he concealed the King, unknown to anyone, until he obtained a safer retreat. And for that act of fortitude and fidelity the King ordered the Coat of Arms to be struck and given to the said James Foote. The chevron in the center of the card is an emblem of firmness and fidelity. We trace our ancestry from this same James Foote.”

In Hume’s History of England, Vol. V, page 417-420, is a similar incident related of King Charles I., so much resembling the tradition in regard to James, his immediate predecessor, as to give rise to the query whether the tradition had not changed the name of the King in passing from memory of one to another so many times.

THE FOOTE COAT OF ARMS.

The genuineness of the Foote Coat of Arms has been held by the family from the first, and has come down to the present generation with the endorsement of our ancestors for two hundred and fifty years. Judge Isaac Foote, of Colchester, Ct., came to the present town of Smyrna, N. Y., in 1794. He was the first Judge of Chenango County. He had been Justice of the Peace and member of the Assembly for Connecticut before coming here, and was for several terms a member of the Assembly for the State of New York.

Judge Foote was born in Colchester, Ct., in 1746, and died in Smyrna in 1842. Judge Foote’s grandfather, Nathaniel Foote, was born in Wethersfield, Ct., in 1682, thirty-one years after the battle of Worcester. He came to Colchester, where Judge Foote was brought up, early in the seventeenth century, and died there in 1774, at the age of 92. Judge Foote lived in Colchester until 1773, until within a year of his grandfather’s death, and so lived in the same town with his grandfather twenty-seven years.

Henry Ward Beecher believed the story of the origin of this Coat of Arms. and named his country seat Boscobel, after the name of the town where the incident occurred which led to the bestowal of the honor. Mr. Beecher's family and Judge Foote's family were very closely related. The father of Mr. Beecher's mother was Eli Foote, a brother of Judge Isaac Foote.

It is manifest that Judge Foote had peculiar advantages for satisfying himself as to the truth of the story. If such a man as he accepted it as genuine, as he did, we may readily conclude that he had good reasons for accepting it. Henry Ward Beecher's biographers (his son and son-in-law, Rev. Samuel Scoville), have introduced the place of the Arms and the story into the biography. The battle of Worcester, with which the matter is associated, occurred Sept. 3, 1651. The histories, so far as ascertained, do not connect the name of Foote with the battle, nor do they mention any one being knighted for any deed performed in connection with it; nor do they mention the clover-field out of which came a part of the insignia, namely, the clover leaf. The histories narrate the story somewhat as follows:

The battle of Worcester was fought Sept. 3, 1651. Cromwell, with 30,000 men, fell upon Worcester and attacked it, meeting with little resistance. The entire Scottish army was either killed or captured. The King, Charles the Second, was obliged to fly. He fled some twenty-six miles with fifty of his friends, when it was deemed wise for him to separate from his companions. The Earl of Derby advised him to go to Boscobel. At Boscobel lived one Penderell, a farmer, to whom the King entrusted himself. Penderell, with the assistance of his four brothers, took the King, clothed him in a garb like their own, led him into a neighboring wood and pretended to employ themselves in cutting fagots. For better concealment the King climbed an oak tree, where he sheltered himself among the leaves and branches for twenty-four hours. This tree was afterwards called The Royal Oak.

The story, as it has been handed down by our ancestors, is that one James Foote, father of Nathaniel Foote, the settler, an officer of King Charles the Second's army, concealed the King in his flight from Cromwell, after the battle of Worcester, at a place called Boscobel, in an oak tree, which was located in a clover field: for which act of chivalry Foote was knighted, the distinct features of the Arms being an oak tree and a clover leaf. The motto of the Arms was "Loyalty and Truth."

While there are marked differences in the two stories, there is no necessary conflict between them. There is nothing in the recorded history to show that one James Foote, an officer of the Army, did not do all the latter story claims for him, or that he was not honored by the King for doing it, as the Foote family have always believed.

LEWIS RAY FOOTE.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 24, 1896.

THE FOOTE FAMILY ASSOCIATION

The first gathering of the Foote Family Association of America took place in Wethersfield, Connecticut, on June 5, 1907. The descendants of Nathaniel Foote, the settler, gathered in the old town, and formed a permanent family organization. There were over one hundred representatives of the Foote family present from all over the United States.

For some six months previous to the meeting, a vigorous correspondence had been carried on between Judge Abram W. Foote, of Middlebury, Vermont, Mr. John M. Foote, of Hartford, Connecticut, Mr. Nathaniel Foote, of New York City, and Dr. Lewis Nathaniel Foote, of Brooklyn, New York. As a result of these conferences, a letter was sent out to a few members of the family, and the responses were so hearty and enthusiastic that no doubt was left as to the desire for a reunion, and the prospects appeared bright for its success.

Later, a general invitation was scattered as widely as possible.

On Tuesday afternoon, June 4th, representatives of the family from near and far began to gather in Hartford. The Garde Hotel had been chosen as the headquarters of the clan, and on that evening an informal reception was held, which was attended by some sixty-five persons. Remarks were made by Judge Abram W. Foote touching the Foote coat-of-arms and its history. Some discussion followed, which was participated in by Mr. Nathaniel Foote, of New York, Judge Nathaniel Foote, of Rochester, New York, Mrs. Caroline Foote Marsh, of New York, Mrs. Mabel Ward Cameron, of Boston, and others. The reception was a most delightful affair.

On the morning of June 5, 1907, a special electric car conveyed the guests to Wethersfield. Arrangements had most generously been made by the members of the Grange, the Business Men's Association and the selectmen of the town to entertain the gathering in the Grange Hall.

The reunion proper opened with an informal reception from 10 to 11 in the hall, when the assemblage was called to order by Dr. Lewis Nathaniel Foote, of Brooklyn, New York.

He spoke briefly as follows:

Cousins and Friends:

It is indeed a great pleasure to be permitted to call to order this the first gathering of the Foote Family Association.

There have been other reunions of Footes here and there throughout the country but to-day marks the beginning of the national, and who knows but that it may grow into an international organization.

From Boston to Seattle have responses come wishing good success to this gathering. So it behooves us to make firm the foundations we lay to-day that the Foote Family Association may last to the end of time.

The Rev. Henry Lewis Foote, of Marblehead, Massachusetts, delivered the invocation.

Upon the declination of Mr. John Foote, of Hartford, Connecticut, to serve as presiding officer, the name of Judge Nathaniel Foote, of Rochester, N. Y., was presented, and he was unanimously chosen to fill that position.

Upon assuming the chair he addressed the gathering as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

You will not expect me to be wholly free from embarrassment in the presence of so many cousins whom I have now, for the first time, the pleasure of meeting.

It was a very happy inspiration of the person or persons responsible for our meeting to-day to have conceived the plan of such a gathering, and they were equally happy in locating the place of this meeting at Wethersfield, where our common ancestor, who came to this country now more than two hundred and eighty years ago, made his fight for existence and to bring up his family, against the wilderness and the savage. To that fight and to its successful issue all who are gathered here to-day, and thousands more, are indebted for the privilege of existence and for the privilege of enjoying the many comforts and blessings which they enjoy at the present day. To that common ancestor, who lies buried in yonder churchyard, we owe a debt of gratitude too great to be stated in words or to be rightly appreciated. Let us do what little we can to honor his memory, and to that end, I hope a permanent organization of his descendants now living may be formed here, which will result in regular gatherings of the family in the future.

The address of welcome was then delivered by Rev. George L. Clark.

An historical paper was then read by Mr. Nathaniel Foote, of New York City. He said in part:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The genesis of the name Foote is found in the tradition that when the primitive inhabitants of the British Isles took names to distinguish one family or clan from another, a man who lived at the foot of the mountain called himself Foote. Of course, I can offer no evidence to sustain this statement, owing to the length of time which has elapsed since this occurrence took place, if it ever did. If we accept it as authentic, we must class it with the story of the escape of Charles I. after the battle of Worcester and the services said to have been rendered him by his loyal subject, James Foote of Boscobel.

You are doubtless familiar with this family tradition, for it has been generally accepted among us in one form or another for many years. The story has taken to itself a visible and permanent existence in the coat of arms and crest of the family. We have the oak tree as a crest and the clover-field on the face of the coat of arms, both to remind us of the peril of the King and the degree of Knighthood which afterward was conferred on some ancestor of ours. Unfortunately we have not been able to ascertain which king it was that honored him.

Some of us have understood that it was Charles I. of England, but English history says otherwise. The battle of Worcester and the escape of the King to Boscobel took place in 1651, or sixteen years after the settlement at Wethersfield. It is quite true that a large number of the family remained at home, and Burke's Book of Heraldry gives a description of ten different coats of arms which belonged to the various branches of the family. It is possible that the degree of Knighthood was conferred on some of those who remained in England.

The earliest record in existence of Nathaniel Foote, the Settler, in this country, is found in the records of the grants and possessions of lands in the Colony of Massachusetts Bay in 1633, when he took the oath of Freeman, and in Watertown, where he first located and where is an entry of land to him. Then came the search after a new home, and after fourteen days of travel in the wilderness he, with the rest of the company, settled in Wethersfield. We do not know the reason for this move, although it was stated at the time that the settlers in Watertown wanted "more room for their cattle." It is more probable, however, that it was the outcome of some sort of a theological dispute which led to the new settlement. Later disputes of the same kind led to the settlement of Stamford, Connecticut, in 1640; Branford in 1644, and Hadley, Massachusetts, in 1659. The records of Wethersfield show that Nathaniel Foote took title to a farm on February 21st, 1637, just 270 years ago, and the purchase of this tract made him the largest holder of adventure lands in the settlement. The word "adventure" in this case being used to describe lands the title of which did not come from the town. This settlement of Wethersfield was the beginning of what is now the State of Connecticut, so that our common ancestor was one of the founders of not only a town but a great Commonwealth as well. I say great because the term is well deserved. No student or observer of American affairs can study the history of the State of Connecticut and say otherwise. And in all the various conditions and movements which have contributed to this result our family have borne their share of the burden. I will venture to mention some of them by name: George Foote, of Bennington, Vermont, who stood by the side of Ethan Allen when he demanded the surrender of Fort Ticonderoga. He was one of the pioneer settlers of that State.

Honorable Isaac Foote, of Colchester, Connecticut, a soldier of the Revolution, and the first Judge of Chenango County, New York, to which place he had removed. He died in February, 1843, at the age of 97.

Nathaniel Foote, the projector of the settlement of Colchester, Connecticut. He was representative to the General Assembly for twenty-two successive sessions. He died in August, 1774, at the age of 92, and his son Nathaniel died in 1811 at the age of 99.

Honorable Ebenezer Foote, of Delhi, New York, another Revolutionary soldier and first Judge of Delaware County.

Honorable Samuel Augustus Foote, of Cheshire, Connecticut, Member and Speaker of the House of Representatives of Connecticut; a representative at the Congress in Washington, afterwards United States Senator; Governor of the State of Connecticut, and Presidential Elector in 1844. His son, Andrew Hull Foote, was the well-known Rear-Admiral in the United States Navy.

I will also mention Elial Todd Foote, for twenty-five years Presiding Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the State of New York; Hon. Leverett Brainerd, former Mayor of Hartford; Frederick W. Foote, of Elizabeth, New Jersey; Right Reverend Fred Foote Johnson, the youngest Bishop in the Episcopal Church;

Honorable Nathaniel Foote, Judge of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York; and Honorable Abram W. Foote, of Middlebury, Vermont.

Judge Abram W. Foote, of Middlebury, Vermont, then addressed the gathering. He said in part:

Dear Cousins:

Two hundred and seventy years ago Nathaniel Foote came to Wethersfield, Conn., and helped settle this, the first town in this valley; he had probably come from Colchester, England, about five years before.

The same energy that prompted Nathaniel Foote to leave Colchester, England, and come to Watertown, and then push again forward to Wethersfield, was apparent in his sons, Nathaniel 2nd, who founded the town of Colchester, Conn., and Robert, who moved to Branford, Conn.; and in the next few generations we find the descendants moving to Vermont and New York State, the frontier at that time, and in the next century pushing on to Michigan and Ohio, and as the country was opened up for settlement, still farther, until to-day we find them in nearly every part of the United States and some parts of Canada.

With the publication of the Genealogy the work of the Association really begins. There is no doubt but what there are many by the name of Foote who have not been traced out; some are indifferent, others have not the means of knowing, but in a few weeks you will all be able to trace the lines just so far as I can now, and by keeping up the interest the greatest success will be attained.

Let each member of the family report any additions or corrections at any time to the Secretary and the record will be preserved for future publication.

These meetings should be held bi-annually, at least, and in different parts of the country, and thus reach a larger proportion of the family.

The object of the Association is two-fold: closer social relations and to collect and preserve the history of the family.

To accomplish these purposes, I would suggest that we have an Assistant Secretary in each State, so far as possible, and that we encourage State Associations that shall meet bi-annually, alternating with the Nathaniel Association, and, if practicable, establish an English Association.

The ties that bind us are naturally closer than that of any fraternity: "Blood is thicker than water."

As we tread the ground that was subdued and tilled by our ancestors, let us not forget that they suffered those privations and braved those dangers that our parents, ourselves, and our children should reap the benefits of living in this Glorious Republic.

This closed the literary character of the morning session.

After some informal remarks by Dr. Foote, of Brooklyn, congratulating Judge Abram W. Foote upon the success of his efforts upon the Foote Genealogy,

It was moved and carried that as an association we tender to him our most hearty thanks for the work that he has done and that some reference in the form of a resolution be placed upon the minutes of this meeting.

The following resolution was introduced and most enthusiastically endorsed by the association:

THE FOOTE FAMILY ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA.

Wethersfield, Connecticut, June 5, 1907.

Hon. Abram William Foote, Middlebury, Vermont.

At the first meeting of the Foote Family Association, held at Wethersfield, Conn., on the 5th day of June, 1907, the following resolution was proposed and unanimously adopted:

Resolved: That we extend to the Honorable Abram W. Foote, of Middlebury, Vermont, our sincere thanks and deep appreciation for the labor which he has so cheerfully given, and for the untiring efforts put forth by him in revising the Foote Genealogy to the present time, as well as to render this gathering so enjoyable to us all.

It has been ordered that this resolution be placed upon the minutes of this the first meeting of the Foote Family Association of America.

NATHANIEL FOOTE, Presiding Officer.

LEWIS NATHANIEL FOOTE, M. D., Acting Secretary.

It was moved and carried that a committee be appointed to nominate officers, draw up rules and by-laws and present some brief form of organization.

The chair appointed as such committee Mr. Julius Merrill Foote, of Newark, New Jersey, Mr. Lawrence Foote, of Canton, Mississippi, and Judge Abram W. Foote, of Middlebury, Vermont.

The benediction was then pronounced by the Rev. John Bartlit Foote, D. D., of Syracuse, New York, thus closing the morning meeting.

Owing to the rainy weather, the guests were largely confined to the Grange building, although later in the day many strolled to the Old Foote Tract and gazed upon the wonderful elm tree.

Lunch was served in the Grange dining hall at 1 o'clock. Over one hundred and fifty were seated and enjoyed a most bountiful repast which was furnished by the Grangers gratuitously.

After luncheon, a flashlight photograph of all those present at the meeting was taken. Instead of the picture being taken under the elm tree, as planned, the weather forbidding, the gathering was photographed in the Grange Hall. A short time was then spent in singing patriotic songs.

The business session was called to order with Judge Nathaniel Foote, of Rochester, New York, in the chair.

The report of the committee on the constitution and by-laws was called for and read.

It was moved and carried that the Foote Family Association of America be hereby organized, and do hereby adopt the constitution and by-laws as offered.

The report of the committee on nominations for officers was called for and the following names were presented:

For President—Hon. Nathaniel Foote, of Rochester, New York.

For Vice-Presidents—Dr. Lewis Nathaniel Foote, of Brooklyn, New York; Mr. John Crocker Foote, of Belvidere, Illinois.

For Secretary and Treasurer—Judge Abram William Foote, of Middlebury, Vermont.

For Historian—Mr. Nathaniel Foote, of New York, N. Y.

For Counselors—Mr. Julius Merrill Foote, of Newark, New Jersey; Mr. Lawrence Foote, of Canton, Mississippi; Mr. Elizur V. Foote, of New York, N. Y.

It was moved and carried that the chairman of the committee on nominations cast the unanimous ballot of the association for the proposed officers.

Judge Nathaniel Foote assumed the chair as president and addressed the association briefly.

It was moved and carried that resolutions of thanks be sent to the hosts of the day and that the resolutions be incorporated in the minutes of the Association.

The subject of a suitable memorial being placed in the town of Wethersfield to perpetuate the name of Nathaniel Foote, the Settler, was brought before the meeting by Judge Abram W. Foote.

It was moved and carried that a committee be appointed, with power to solicit subscriptions for, and to place in the town of Wethersfield, a suitable memorial to Nathaniel Foote, the Settler.

The president appointed as such committee Judge Abram W. Foote, of Middlebury, Vermont, Dr. Lewis Nathaniel Foote, of Brooklyn, New York, and Mr. John A. Foote, of Catskill, New York.

The business meeting was then declared adjourned.

Mr. Josiah G. Adams had been requested to preside at a symposium, at which addresses were listened to with much pleasure from the Wethersfield friends.

Those who spoke included Mr. Henry A. Stillman, of Hartford; Representatives E. Hart Fenn and John T. Welles, Messrs. R. R. Wolcott, George W. Harris, Robert Griswold and F. A. Griswold, of Wethersfield, and Mr. John Howard Foote, of Brooklyn, New York.

The day closed with the singing of "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

Many letters of regret and telegrams were received from those who could not be present.

During the day a telegram was sent to President Roosevelt.

Minutes of June 4 and 5, 1907.

NATHANIEL FOOTE, President.

ABRAM W. FOOTE, Secretary.

LEWIS NATHANIEL FOOTE, M. D., Acting Secretary.

DESCENDANTS OF NATHANIEL FOOTE OF WETHERSFIELD, CT.

1. NATHANIEL FOOTE. The first settler. He was b. abt. 1593; m. in England abt. 1615, Elizabeth Deming, sister of John Deming, who was one of the first settlers of Wethersfield. She was b. abt. 1595. He d. abt. 1644. She m. abt. 1646, Thomas Welles. He was magistrate, afterwards Governor of the Colony. He d. Jan 14 1660 She d. July 28, 1683.

I. NATHANIEL FOOTE, one of the first settlers of Wethersfield, Ct., belongs, not to that class of men who fill a large place in the world's history, because called by some great emergency into positions of power and influence,—but to that more meritorious class of pious and excellent persons, who, born to the great inheritance of labor, walk meekly along the paths of common life, perform every duty, public or private, love and help their fellow men, and act always as if in their Great Task Master's eye. It is to such men that society owes at once its peace, stability and progress, and yet history takes no note of such, and hence

“The world knows nothing of its greatest men.”

His business in life was that of agriculture,—necessarily the leading pursuit of New England in its early history, when the forests were to be elled, the soil broken up, the seeds of all the grains, and plants and fruits which constitute the food of men and beasts to be sown, and its great staples of commercial exchange supplied. And in every period of society the agriculture population has proved of the highest importance to the wealth, dignity and strength of a State. It is from this class of the population that the city and the village, that commerce and the arts, are ever drawing the bone and muscle of their laborers, and much of the energy of their directing force. In no other of the leading pursuits in society are there the same facilities for cultivating bodily energy, and the force and vigor of mind consequent upon a vigorous constitution. The pure air, the rough exposure, the healthful toil, the constant call for thought and reflection, the walking with God in the open field, the study of his laws as unfolded in the circuit of the seasons, and in the growth of the seed and ripening of the harvest, the better domestic training under which children can be reared in the country,—all these things are favorable for converting the agricultural population into an element of conservation, much needed to give stability to the ever restless desire of change which animates a young community, and to uphold society in moments of danger and trial. It is the boast of Connecticut, and of Wethersfield in particular, to have had from the beginning a large population of intelligent, industrious and pious farmers in her population, and that the ranks of her merchants, her mechanics, her seamen and her professional men have been replenished by contributions drawn from this source. To this she undoubtedly owed her reputation for steady habits, and the domestic peace which has reigned so continuously in her borders. To this class of her population Mr. Foote belonged;—he was an intelligent, pious and industrious farmer, and, like all of that class of farmers, he was from time to time summoned to the discharge of public trusts by his neighbors and townsmen.

From all that we can learn Mr. Foote came from Shalford, in Colchester, Eng., and settled in Watertown, Mass. The first mention I find made of his name is in the Records of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, in 1633, when he took the oath of freeman. In the “Records of the Grants and Possession of the Lands in Watertown,” (in which town Mr. Foote first located himself) the following entry is made:

“ Nathaniel Foote.

“1. An homstall of sixteen acres by estimation, bounded ye north and north-west wth ye highway, the south and southwest wth Jeremiah Norcross, granted to him.

“2. Two acres of marsh by estimation, bounded ye south wth ye River, the north wth Henry Curtis, the east wth John Firmin, and the west wth John Smith, granted to him.”

Whether Mr. Foote was among the pioneers from Watertown, who made the first lodgment in, or before, 1635, on the banks of the Connecticut at Pyquag, is not known, but his name is found in its first Records, and among those to whom the first distribution of land was made; and he, therefore, must have shared all the dangers and privations of that long and toilsome journey through the wilderness in 1636, and have encountered all the horrors and trials of the first winter in their new home. And how difficult it is for us, in our comfortable dwellings, or traversing with every means and appliance of comfort, the distance between Wethersfield and Boston, in half as many hours as they consumed days, to realize the sufferings of that journey and of that first winter here! We never can be too thankful that courage and strength was meted out to them in proportion to their trials. For them, the trail of the Indian, too narrow for teams or herds,—for them, the unbridged stream and morass,—for them, the steep hill,—for them, the dangers from wild beasts, or from savage men, were not enough to cause them to turn back. It was not 'till winter had come down from the north to lock up the streams, 'till the fire in their temporary lodgments could not keep out the biting cold, 'till famine stared them in the face, that they turned again for food and shelter to the coast; and when spring returned, they were again on their way, with their thinned ranks recruited, to commence anew the work of settlement.

In a few years we find them, with their brethren in Hartford and Windsor, laying the foundations of a Commonwealth in which they aim “to maintain and preserve the liberty and purity of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus,” and “to be governed and guided by such laws, rules, orders and decrees as shall be made, ordained and declared” by the General Court, to be appointed by the freemen of the Commonwealth. To found a State under any circumstances has ever been counted among the great works of great men, but to found a State, in which the equal rights of all men are so well recognized and guarded, in the wilderness, amid the trials of frost and famine, and with daily, hourly, constant apprehension of assault and butchery from the savage, is no common event in the world's history, and should be ever remembered by those who have enjoyed its protection.

In the original distribution of the lands of the town, as recorded in 1640, Mr. Foote had assigned him a house lot of ten acres on the east side of Broad street, near the south end of the street. A part of this lot is now owned and occupied by Mr. Josiah Adams. Mr. Foote became the owner of several other tracts of land, laying partly in the Great Meadow east of his house lot, and containing in the whole, upwards of four hundred acres. The cultivation of his land constituted his main business, although he was called by his neighbors to participate in the public trusts of the town, and in 1644 was appointed a delegate to the General Court.

Mr. Foote married in England, about the year 1615, to Elizabeth Deming, sister of Mr. John Deming, who was one of the first settlers of Wethersfield, and for many years one of the magistrates of the Colony of Connecticut, and one of the patentees named in its charter. His children were all born in England, except perhaps the youngest. Mr. Foote died in 1644, aged about 51 years, and was buried in the ancient burying ground in the rear of the Meeting House, where are gathered together the ashes of nine generations. He left behind him, surviving, a widow, two sons and five daughters. He left no will. At a Particular Court held at Hartford, November 20, 1644, the following inventory of his property and distribution of his real estate were exhibited, and an order of court granting administration on his estate and directing a distribution to be made, was passed.

“Mr. Heynes and Mr. Willis are desired to consider of the estate of Nath: foote, deceased, and to take in what help they please from any of the neighbors to advise how yt may be Disposed of, and to report there apprehensions to the next Court.”

This last vote is of many evidences which might be quoted from the Records to show the confidence reposed in the leading men of the Colony, and how naturally the people turn to such men for help when public business is to be done, or private affairs even are to be regulated.

Mrs. Foote, the widow of Nathaniel Foote, was married about the year 1616, to “Mr. Thomas Welles, Magistrate,” afterwards Governor of the Colony, whom she likewise survived.

Governor Welles died Jan. 14, 1659-60, leaving a will. When in life, he gave a good estate to each of his children, except his son John, who settled in Stratford, Ct. Mr. John Welles died before his father, and in his will gave him his son Robert, then a child, to whom Governor Welles, in his will, which is dated November 7, 1659, gave the bulk of the large estate of which he died seized.

Mrs. Welles died July 28, 1683, aged about 88 years. She left a will which was exhibited to and approved by the “Particular Court,” August, 1683. The following is a copy of that Instrument:

“I, Elizabeth Welles, of Wethersfield, in the county of Hartford, in the colony of Connecticut, Widdow, Being stricken in yeares & in expectation of my Solemn Change but of Good and perfect memorie blessed by allmighty God, for the setleing of the Temporall estate God hath lent me, & that peace may be continued amongst my relations when I am gathered to my Fathers, doe make, constitute & ordain & declare this to be my last will & Testament in Manor & form following, revoking & adnulling by these presents all former & other will or wills, Testament or Testaments by me heretofore made and declared by word or writing & this to be taken onely for my last will & Testament & none other, & first I committ my soule to allmighty God my Saviour & redeemer in whome & by the merits of Jesus Christ I trust and believe to be saved & to have forgiven of my sins, & that my Soule with my body at the Generall day or resurrection Shall be reunited againe, & through the meritts of Christ’s death and passion possesse & Inherit the kingdom of heaven prepared for the Elect, & my body to comely and Christian Buriall as my overseers shall see meet, & my estate I disspose as followeth. The following was taken from the Hatfield Town Records:

“Elizabeth, wife to Daniel Beldenye head of the family, together with Daniel Belden, John Belden and Thankful Belden, their children, were all of them slain by the enemy September 16, 1696.”

“Sept. 16, 1696. The Indians came along from up Green River to the town, and assaulted Mr. Daniel Belden’s house; took Mr. Belden, his son Nathaniel and daughter Esther captive, killed his wife and three children, and wounded Samuel & Abigail, but they recovered, altho’ Samuel had a hatchet stuck in his head, some of his brains came out at his wound. Samuel was born Apr. 10, 1687.

From Mather’s Magnalia:

The Indians making an Assault upon Deerfield, in this Present War, they put a Hatchet some Inches into the Skull of a Boy there, even so deep that the Boy felt the force of a Wrench used by ’em to get it out. There he lay a long while Weltering in his Blood; they found him, they Dress’d him; considerable Quantities of his Brain came out from time to time when they opened the Wound; yet the Lad recovered, and is now a Living Monument of the Power and Goodness of God.”

Nathaniel Foote was born at Wethersfield, Jan. 10, 1648. He settled in Hatfield, Mass., and married, May 2, 1672, Margaret Bliss; dau. of Nathaniel Bliss, of Springfield. After residing in Hatfield two years, he removed to Springfield, like almost every householder, he was called into the service of his country against the Indians, and was actively engaged in the bloody and successful attack on their encampment at the falls in Connecticut river. A few miles above Deerfield, since called Turner's Falls, in commemoration of the brave Capt. Turner, who commanded the expedition. From Springfield, Mr. Foote removed to Stratford, where his house lot of one acre was on Main street, directly east of the old burial ground near the present Congregational Church. This lot he conveyed in March, 1680, to Benjamin Lewis, having decided to move with his family to Branford, where, in February, 1679, he was admitted "a planter" of the town, and a "home lot" was granted to him, "on condition that it should have a tenable house built upon it within two years, and that he come to settle amongst us, or else the lot to return to the town again." In pursuing his "manifest destiny" to migrate, Mr. Foote conveyed this lot with sundry other lots of which he had become possessed, to Jonathan Pitman, of Stratford, and moved to Wethersfield, where he continued to reside till his death, although he had, previous to that event, planned another removal to a new settlement begun under his enterprise, at "Jeremy's Farm," since and now called Colchester, on the road from Hartford to New London. An order authorizing a settlement at this place was made by the General Court in October, 1698, and the new settlement was made to embrace the territory bounded north by Twenty-mile river, south by Lyme, west by Haddam and Middletown, and east and northeast by Lebanon and Norwich. This land was conveyed by Owanecco, Sachem of Mohegan, "for the consideration of love and affection," to Nathaniel Foote, to be distributed by him "according to his discretion," except fifty acres to be selected by himself, which he had the privilege of reserving to himself and his heirs forever. The settlement was commenced in 1701, but on account of failing health, Mr. Foote did not remove. He died Jan. 12, 1703, leaving a widow and nine children, four sons and five daughters. His widow and four youngest children, three sons and one daughter, subsequently moved to Colechester. Mrs. Foote died Apr. 3, 1745, at the age of 95. The children all married, and settled in the neighborhood of each other in the new town.

Although a house carpenter by trade, and as such was employed to repair the Meeting House at Bradford, Mr. Foote, after his return to Wethersfield, appears to have pursued the practice of the law,—his name frequently appearing on the records of the County Court as Attorney in cases before that court.

Moses Foote lived in that part of Waterbury, Conn., now called Plymouth. We find that for many years before his death in 1770, he and his second wife, Ruth, and several of their children were members of the church at Plymouth. Among these was Obed Foote, the youngest son, born November 25, 1741. He became in love with the minister's daughter, Mary Todd, then 19 years of age. He was only 20, and they were married in 1761. Eleven children were the fruit of this happy marriage. Her father, Rev. Samuel Todd, was a graduate of Yale, pastor of the church at Plymouth for 25 years, and a chaplain in the Continental army in the Revolution, and afterwards the first pastor of the Church at North Adams, Berkshire county, Mass. Of Obed's four brothers three were in the Revolutionary service. One, David, was killed by the British in their attack on Fairfield, Conn. Another, Ebenezer, died in the army, and each of these had a son in the service. While these brothers were in the Revolutionary army, Obed, the youngest son, remained at home to care for the widowed mother, then 70 years of age, and his young family, among whom was Samuel Foote, born April 7, 1770, at Plymouth, Conn., who was in later years one of the pioneers of Sherburne and Plymouth, N. Y.

- Major Isaac Foote was b. at Branford, Ct., July 16, 1717. His father, Isaac Foote, Esq., and his mother, dau. of Abraham Dickerman, of New Haven, were highly esteemed by their acquaintance, particularly in the duties of the Christian character. This, their only son, was early consecrated to God, and, with two sisters, was trained up with parental care, and with the best advantages for education that could be ordinarily obtained at that day. In his youth he exhibited an inclination to the military profession, which was necessarily cultivated, more or less, at that period of our history. What part he took in the war of 1745 is not well known, but it is supposed that he was an officer in the militia, and probably engaged in the important expedition to Cape Breton, which issued in the capture of the strongly fortified town of Louisburg.

The next period of peace between England and France continued but seven years. The succeeding war, commonly denominated the "French War," commenced in 1755; the same season as the defeat of the unfortunate Braddock. The regiment to which Major Foote was attached joined the Northern army under the command of Gen. Shirley. Great preparations were made that year for the approaching contest; the best troops in New England were called out, it being generally expected that the decisive conflict of war would take place in Canada. This proved to be the case in the successful battle of Quebec, with the death of Gen. Wolfe.

At this eventful occasion we have in Major Foote a striking exhibition of the Christian soldier. While this detachment was at Albany, Gen. Shirley had a dining party, of which Mr. Foote was one, on the Sabbath. He attended public worship in the morning, and then went to dinner. At the call for the afternoon exercise Major Foote rose at table and asked permission to leave the company. Gen. Shirley said, "No, Major, do not leave this company, and these choice wines." He modestly renewed his request, and was refused as before. Mr. Foote stood, but was silent. The Gen. spoke again, "No compulsion, Major, take your choice, leave if you wish." He took a respectful leave for the house of prayer.

A few extracts from his letters, written to his wife a short time previous to his decease, will give a distinct view of the Christian character of Major Foote, and may be more interesting than the remarks of another. He was in the tract of country between Albany, Lake Champlain and Lake Ontario, distinguished in our history for military achievements.

"Fort Nicholson, Aug. 15, 1755.—I am now arrived at the great carrying-place where General Lyman built a fort. I do not expect to write you any letters before we attack the fort and have an engagement; and stand or fall, live or die, as God pleases, I feel, in general, resigned to the disposal of Divine Providence; and if it should be my lot to fall in battle, or otherwise die here, let me recommend to you, as from a dying husband, to live entirely devoted to God and his service. Spend your time in doing the will of God. The great part of your care must be in bringing up the dear children, and use your utmost endeavor to instruct them in the principles of religion; pray much with them and for them.

. . . I hope your heart is fixed, trusting in God, so that evil tidings shall not make you afraid. I know that, like Eli, your heart will tremble, you will want to hear and yet be afraid to hear. And when you learn that there are a number slain (for it would be very extraordinary if none should be killed), how your heart will tremble lest I should be in the number of them that fall in battle. And if it should be the case, do not mourn immoderately, for while you are mourning and weeping, through the Redeemer's merits, I shall be adoring before the throne of God."

In the next letter, dater Aug. 20th, he writes,—“We have orders to move forward our regiment. I am not well, but resigned to the will of God. Hope you are, and will continue so. The comforts of religion are real, solid, and sometimes ravishing. O Saviour, how much do I long to be conformed to Thee. Love God, pray much, instruct the children, and if I ever come home I intend to do more for them than I have ever done. Pray for Zion's prosperity. I trust you will be faithful in the affair of religion of the family. I now have the distemper that prevails among us, though not mortal, except in two instances. But I am in safe hands. Do not be concerned about me; you may mention the case to a prayer-hearing God, and desire the prayers of my Christian friends. I trust I shall be saved from the pestilence that walketh in darkness, and the arrows and bullets that fly at noon-day. But, however it be, do you love and praise God, and join with me in ascribing praise and honor to the Lamb, to Whom be glory everlasting.”

In a letter of Sept. 1st, he says,—“I left the camp about a week ago on account of my ill-health. Am now pretty well recovered, and design to go to the army to-morrow. Gen. Johnson. with 1500 men is now at the head of the army.”

The tombstone of Major Isaac Foote, died 7 October, 1755, age "38 years, 2 months, 7 days," now (1932) lies flat in the East Greenbush Cemetery, Clinton Heights Rensselaer County, N.Y.

Tradition has it that "some years ago" the stone was removed from a burial plot near "Fort Cralo". Cemetery records may show whether the remains were also removed.

“Thursday Morning,—Slept comfortably; hope you had a good night, and freedom this morning to pour out your soul to God. I am very poor and pained to-day; but it is all well; because as to health, it is as God would have it. . . . It is now 9 o'clock; I will lay down and rest my poor body, if God pleases, and to-morrow I may perhaps write more; and so good-night to you and the children and friends.”

About this period Major Foote obtained permission to leave the army on account of his constant and increasing illness, hoping to be able to reach his home.

In a letter of Sept. 1st, he says,—“ I left the camp about a week ago on account of my ill-health. Am now pretty well recovered, and design to go to the army to-morrow. Gen. Johnson, with 1,500 men, is now at the Lake St. Savian, building a fort; and some things look discouraging. Yet I trust, if the reinforcements come seasonably, we shall proceed to some point. We have some prospect of an engagement.

I am at present in low spirits. Oh, alas, how various are my frames! Last letter I wrote you I was on the mount; and could unite with angels in adoring sovereign grace;—and now, alas, why sunk down in stupidity and sloth. Oh, cry to Heaven for me. I hope you and the few dear praying ones will continue to besiege, as you beautifully express it, the throne of Grace. You may do more than Gen. Johnson can with his army. Oh! the prayer of saints—I had almost said Omnipotent. Mr. Bellamy, in a letter, tells me all the children of God lie prostrate before the Lord for success in this enterprize. . . . Oh, amazing grace! how safe is the believer. Perils and dangers he may pass through, afflictions may encompass him like bees, death may stare him in the face and threaten an onset. Serene and calm he awaits the blow, and asks the monster: Where is its sting, and where its victory-boasting grave?”

“ Flatts, 4 miles above Albany, Sept. 17, ’55,—I am here at Colonel Schuyler’s waiting for a guard, for it is not deemed safe to go alone. I am in a very feeble state of health; think it is owing to Jesuit’s bark, taken to break fever and ague fits, or to the almost constant fogs that arise from the river. If I was at home I should give quite out. I am tenderly looked after, go where I will, and treated very kindly. . . . I know not when I shall go home, if ever. I would have you cast all your care and roll all your burden upon God. He will support you. Is he not better to you than an earthly friend? I am sure He is to me. When dejected, He raises me up; when fainting, He gives me refreshing cordials; when thirsty, He gives me the water of life.”

About this period Major Foote obtained permission to leave the army on account of his constant and increasing illness, hoping to be able to reach his home.

But he was not able to proceed any farther than Greenbush, opposite Albany, where he died, Oct. 7, 1755, in the 39th year of his age. In the ancient burying ground, opposite the lower part of the city of Albany, he sleeps in peace, to be called by the Lord at the "resurrection of the just."

Jonathan Foote, with five sons, came from Colchester to Lee, Mass., in 1770. Sons, Jonathan, Fenner, David, Asabel, Solomon; daughter, Lovice.

The first religious service was held in Oliver West's barn, Jan. 8, 1778.

The haymow, it is said, was used as a singer's gallery, and the five sons of Jonathan Foote, with their sister, Lovice, constituted the choir, a fact commemorated by the poet and wit of the time, Nathan Dillingham:

"David and Ase sung base;

Jonathan and Fenner sang tenor;

'Vice and Sol beat them all.'"

He removed from Simsbury, Ct., about 1764 to Washington, Mass., and cleared away the forest and made a farm. He moved next to Dalton, Mass.; purchased land and brought into cultivation a valuable farm. This he sold to Daniel, his oldest son, and moved to Middlebury, Vt., and bought one thousand acres of wild land, on which he built mills, felled the forest, and resided for many years. About 1783 he bought all of the land that is now in the village of Middlebury on the west side of the river and erected a grist mill and saw mill. This property was given by him to his sons Stillman and John, the latter selling his interest to Appleton in 1792. They built dwellings and improved the property. (See History of Middlebury.) Daniel Foote built the first bridge at Middlebury Falls. About 1801 he divided his property at Middlebury among his children, and went to Canton, N. Y., his son Stillman having moved there a short time before. In passing through Montreal, he took the small-pox and died a few days after he arrived in Canton. He was a man of great industry and indomitable perseverance, and peculiarly fitted for a pioneer in a new country. He d. May 10, 1801, and was buried in an elm bark coffin. All of his twelve children were members of the church. His sons also were pioneers, and their children are now widely scattered over the United States.

Sept. 5, 1757; m. 2nd, May 17, 1759, Amy, dau. of Jonah Richards, of E. Hartford and N. Hartford, Ct. She d. at Clinton, N. Y., Aug. 13, 1813, ae. 76. He commanded a Company in the 27th Reg. of Ct. Vol. (D. A. R. Records).

Moses Foote, the son of Moses Foote, was born in that part of Waterbury now Plymouth, Ct., where he resided until soon after the close of the Revolutionary War, when he moved with his family to commence a settlement in the western wilderness of New York. He was accompanied in this movement by the families of his sons and his sons-in-law—making altogether a neighborhood of his own. With Mr. Foote to lead and direct the enterprise, the party were admirably fitted to commence a new settlement. They were all charged with Yankee ingenuity, energy and perseverance, and Mr. Foote was endowed with an iron frame, six feet high, and of a temperament and muscular texture which admirably fitted him for a pioneer life. They took up a temporary residence at German Flatts, on the Mohawk River, then the very boundary of civilization on the west. In the autumn of 1786 they determined on a location sixty miles beyond, at a place now called Clinton, and there erected log huts, preparatory to an early removal in the succeeding spring. Accordingly, with the other families, Mr. Foote commenced the settlement of the new town in March, 1787, when scarcely the smoke of a log cabin inhabited by a white family could be discerned for twenty miles round. The town was called Paris, by the Legislature, on the petition of the inhabitants, in commemoration of the liberality of a merchant at Fort Plains, on the Mohawk, who supplied the infant settlement with corn and other provisions at a low price and a long credit, at a season when the crops, affected by the unfavorable weather, had nearly failed. The purchase made in 1788, by George Clinton and other Commissioners appointed by the Legislature, from the Oneida Indians, of all their land, except some small reservation, gave a new and powerful impetus to the settlement of all this section of country, and in the course of a few years the germs of from twenty to thirty towns were planted in the region round about Mr. Foote's settlement. Mr. Foote lived to see his own settlement expand and strengthen into a beautiful and flourishing village, bearing the honored name of Clinton, and the seat of a University, called after the no less honored name of Hamilton. During his life the wilderness through which he and his companions cut their way with the axe was converted into fields of grass and corn and wheat—and the stupendous work of connecting the waters of Lake Erie and Hudson river, by a navigable canal, was devised and completed, and his own crops were borne on its bosom to the Atlantic markets along the very route on which he made his slow and toilsome progress, through tangled forests, on foot, forty years before. He died Feb 9, 1819, at the age of 84. In the upper end of the park at Clinton is a granite monument, with this inscription on the south side, "Moses Foote, Esq., with seven other families, commenced the settlement of this town March 3, 1787." On the opposite side is the names, viz.: "Moses Foote, Luther Foote, Ira Foote, Ludim Blodget, James Bronson, Bronson Foote, Barnabas Pond, Levi Sherman."

He was a farmer, and lived and died on the farm he cleaned up. His name is on the monument, where they cut the first tree and built the first meeting house. He was a major in the Revolutionary War. While Lafayette was passing through the thousands of the hardy yeomanry of the country anxious to express their gratitude to the French General and joy at meeting him as the nation's honored guest at Utica, N. Y., the General's keen military eye caught the figure and form of the venerable Barnabas Pond, and rising up in his carriage, pointed him out and addressed him as "Major Pond." They met, embraced, while the tears of joy mingled as they coursed down the venerable cheeks. Major Pond d. May 9, 1841, at Clinton, N. Y. She d. Oct. 8, 1814, at Clinton, N. Y. She d. at Hartford, Ct., Aug. 9, 1881, ae. 89 yrs., 8 mos., 5 ds. She was buried in the cemetery in the Southwest district in Westchester, Ct., by the side of her husband. She was of a quiet and gentle disposition, social and pleasing in her manners, and much respected and beloved by her relatives and friends. If the poor needed a helper or a friend, she was ever ready to sympathize with them and to render such aid as time and strength would permit her to do. The following words of King Lemuel in Proverbs, Chapter 31, are applicable to her: "She layeth her hands to the spindle, and her hands hold the distaff. She stretcheth out her hands to the poor: yea, she reacheth forth her hands to the needy. She openeth her mouth with wisdom: and in her tongue is the law of kindness. She looketh well to the ways of her household, and eateth not the bread of idleness." She was blind the last eight years of her life. Amaziah Brainard's life was spent in his native town, Colchester, Westchester Soc. In his earlier years he taught school for several seasons with success; later he occupied many positions of honor and trust. He was acting justice of the peace from 1828 to 1835, inclusive, and in 1839. He represented his town in the legislature during the sessions of 1829 and 1830 with much credit to himself and satisfaction to his constituents. He was a man of large and commanding figure, being six feet and one inch in height and correspondingly heavy. Possessing more than an ordinary degree of intelligence and of strict integrity, he enjoyed the honor and respect of his associates during life and was lamented at death. He was a farmer, having built his house at the time of his marriage on the site where his grandfather built when he settled in the southwest district, Westchester

Doctor Foote read medicine with Doctor Percival, of East Haddam, Ct. During the war of the Revolution he was three years in the naval service as surgeon. He practiced medicine in Pittsfield, Mass., some nine to ten years, and removed from thence to New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., at a very early period in the settlement of this part of this county, and had an extensive practice during his life and was much esteemed. During the first few years of his residence in New Berlin, in common with the few neighbors who had emigrated to this wilderness, his courage, decision and perseverance were often severely tested by the hardships and conflicts he was compelled to endure. Notwithstanding his title to the land he had purchased was valid in the law, yet the beasts of the forest, holding a claim by right of discovery, refused to yield him peaceable possession. Having, however, just had some experience in settling the claims which the British Lion pretended to have upon the lands and tenements of this country, he thought he could safely and successfully prosecute this matter of dispute with the American Bear. Accordingly, as neither party seemed disposed to relinquish his claims, and both feeling confident in the justice of their cause and of their superior physical force, an appeal to arms was made. A bear seizing a hog belonging to one of the neighbors of Doctor Foote, the tocsin of war was sounded, and the little band, comprising only three men, Doctor Foote, old Mr. Marvin, and his son Elisha, Spartan like, were ready for the conflict. They took up their line of march in the trail of the bear, and pursued on until they reached the spot where the bear had slain his prize and made a delicious meal of his blood. The bear, and his place of rendezvous not being distinctly known by them, they followed on a short distance further and made a halt. A rustling among the leaves was soon heard at a little distance from where they stood. In a moment the bear was in sight. The Doctor at once levelled his piece and gave him a broadside. A large dog then sprang at the bear and was instantly overpowered. It soon became evident from the treatment the dog received while prisoner of the bear that the bear was waging a war of extermination. Their ammunition exhausted, and but one gun in the company, and the dog suffering pains and penalties worse than those of a Romish Inquisition, conspired to create a moment of disagreeable suspense. At length the Doctor mounted the log under which his dog was confined by the bear and commenced beating him with the breech of his gun, hoping by this manoeuvre at least to liberate his dog from the very unkind embrace of the bear. But the bear, indignant at such an interference when he was contending with the champion of the canine race, rose in all his brutish majesty, and at one fell swoop brought the Doctor to the ground. The dog, acting on the principle that discretion is the better part of valor, made good his escape to the house, and was unhesitatingly entered on the list of killed and wounded. While the Doctor was on the ground being mangled and torn by the bear, Mr. Marvin, the younger, undertook to save the Doctor's life at the risk of his own. He seized the bear, thinking that he could not only separate the bear from the Doctor but escape himself from being hurt. But no sooner had he touched the animal than he himself was in the same dangerous situation, the bear having him down, mangling and tearing his limbs with, if possible, increased ferocity. While the Doctor was revolving in his mind their situation and danger, the thought of his little pocket Barlow knife, the only weapon now left with which there was any chance of dispatching their more than troublesome antagonist. But before he could get his knife from his pocket and open it, his hands and arms being badly wounded, Mr. Marvin, the elder, seeing his son in such imminent danger, rushed into the arena for his rescue. The father made a pass at the ears of old Bruin, with the expectation of drawing him backwards beyond the reach of his son, and not only relieve his son but escape himself. It is thought he would have remained a spectator of the tragedy had it not been for his strong paternal feelings. But the bear had been too long the forest king to permit such familiarity from an invader of his dominions. He, therefore, as quick as thought turned upon him, and with one blow of his paw felled him to the ground. No sooner had the bear laid him prostrate than he proceeded to gnaw his head and mangle his limbs with great cruelty. By this time the Doctor had succeeded in opening his knife, and he walked up to the bear, threw his arm over on the opposite side of him, thinking that as soon as the bear felt the thrust of his knife he would wheel about in an opposite direction from him. The Doctor stabbed the bear twice over the region of the heart, when he turned suddenly round as was anticipated, and set off in a tangent for the swamp at the foot of the hill, mortally wounded. Just at the moment the bear started to leave the field of action he met a Mr. Franklin, who had been sent by the wives of Doctor Foote and Mr. Marvin as a kind of reinforcement to their husbands. The moment Franklin came in sight of the bear, supposing the bear in pursuit of him, he wheeled and took to his heels down the hill, running with the speed of the wind. Upon looking back, after coming in sight of the women, he then for the first time ascertained that the bear was not, and never had been, in pursuit of him, but was making his way, with all necessary speed, to the swamp, to slake his thirst, created by loss of blood. Franklin came up to where the women stood, and on their anxious inquiry after the fate of their husbands and son, Franklin faintly ejaculated, "Dead! all dead!" "Go call Elder Camp" they quickly rejoined. Franklin, somewhat recovered from his fatigue and fright, started off. Upon arriving at the bank of the Unadilla, opposite to Elder Camp's house, he screamed at the top of his voice, "Elder Camp! Elder Camp!" On hearing such unearthly cries the Elder hurried out of his house and asked "What's wanted?" "There are four men dead," replied Franklin. "Four men dead," echoed the Elder, "who are they?" "They are," says Franklin, in a piteous tone, "Doctor Foote, old Mr. Marvin, his son Elisha, and myself. All are dead and gone!"

247. JUDGE ISAAC FOOTE, (76, 25, 9, 3,) b. Jan. 4, 1746; m. Mary Kellogg at Colchester, Ct., May 31, 1768. She was the daughter of Jonathan Kellogg, Jr., of that place, and she was a descendant in the fourth generation of Joseph Kellogg, first of Farmington, Ct., and afterwards of Hadley, Mass. She died in Smyrna, Nov. 15, 1826, aged 82. In the common schools of that town and in his early puritan home, he received that sound, but plain elementary instruction and that religious training which fitted him for a long life of practical usefulness, of strict integrity, and the most consistent piety.
- “In May, 1773, he removed from Colchester to what was called Square Pond Settlement, being within the limits of East Winsor, and bounding on West Stafford, Ct. In May, 1778, he removed to Stafford, and in the year 1779 he was by united application of the people appointed Justice of the Peace, which office he continued to hold until he removed from that state. He was frequently elected to represent the town of Stafford in the General Assembly of Connecticut, and was a delegate to the convention to consider the adoption of the Constitution of the United States.
- This was the character Judge Foote had attained at an early day in his native state. That he was a soldier in the Revolution is evidenced by the following extract from a letter written by him in the 87th year of his age, in 1832, to Hon.

Eliel T. Foote, and still preserved by a son of the latter, H. A. Foote, Esq., of New York, who has furnished the writer of this sketch with a copy of the same. He says: There was a mistake in the account that Rennsalaer (Foote) gives about Ebenezer's (Judge Foote's younger brother, who was afterwards a prominent citizen of Delhi, Delaware County, where he was successively Member of Assembly, District Attorney, State Senator and County Judge,) swimming across the Hudson river in the winter. He was taken prisoner by the enemy at the evacuation of New York, I think in September (1776). I was there at the same time as a militiaman.

He was taken by the Hessians in that retreat, but he got away from them and fled to the river, and he, with three others who made their escape, collected some logs and withed them together and shoved out into the river with setting poles, and the tide being going out then it wafted them toward the British shipping. Some people from the Jersey side seeing their condition manned a boat and went out and took them across to the Jersey side, and the next day they crossed back again and came into camp where I was." No further evidence than this is needed of the fact that he was a patriot soldier in the stormy days of the Revolution.

But to give a little further retrospective glimpse of the honorable ancestry of Judge Foote, we quote again from his letter above referred to, as follows: "Grandfather (Nathaniel Foote 3rd) was the first magistrate in Colechester, and sustained that office to a very advanced age; and my father (Daniel Foote), who was the third son, and always lived with him, succeeded him in that office, and held it about the same length of time." The Judge in his worthy career was simply following on in the line of those who had preceded him.

The graphic account of the removal of the family of Isaac Foote to what was then denominated the town of Sherburne, and of their movements for a few years prior thereto, is herewith given from the pen of Isaac Foote, Jr.: "My father (Judge Foote) at an early day seemed to have an unconquerable desire to settle in some part of the then western country. In pursuance of this desire he joined a company in 1788 in the purchase of a very desirable tract of land adjoining the Susquehanna river in Wyoming County, Pa., but after spending two or three seasons at work preparatory to settle thereon with his family, the title proved insufficient, and he lost his land and all his labor, and several hundred dollars which he advanced in payment. Having sold his farm in Stafford, Ct., he purchased an hundred acres in Franklin, now Delaware County, N. Y., on which there was a log house and about 35 acres of cleared land, on to which he proposed to move his family and look for a better location. The fall after I was fourteen years old (1790) my father took me with a hired man and a team and a few cattle and set off for Franklin, intending to return for the family in the winter following. There was about 50 miles between Catskill and Franklin, where the State road was not cleared out so that a wheeled carriage could pass. We therefore left the wagon and took a few light articles on a sled and went through to Franklin. The first sleighing we returned to our wagon, put our goods on a sled and started back for Franklin—then a very new place. There was one place where there was ten miles between houses, and it was so that the day we passed over the ten miles was an uncommon cold one, and it was eight o'clock at night before we got through. Consequently I became so benumbed that I could hardly walk. My father hurried through about a mile and a half to the first house. My feet, hands and ears were badly frozen, so that coming to the fire put me in extreme pain. I will only add that we got to Franklin the next day.

“My father left me with a friend and returned for the family. But our misfortunes did not end here. When my father got home he found one of my sisters very sick, so that she could not be moved until the sleighing was gone; and then the neighbours, who were unwilling that my father and his family should move away, prevailed upon him to purchase a farm which was for sale at a low rate in that vicinity.

“My father consequently returned to Franklin early in the spring, made arrangements for me to stay until June, and then take a pair of oxen and the horse, and as many articles as the team could draw on a sled and go to where the wagon was left and take as many things as the team could draw from there and so return home. I got home safe and had the credit of performing a service unusual for a boy of my age.

“My father being still bent on getting into some part of the western country, after improving his new farm awhile took a journey to Chenango; found the 8th township (present Smyrna) with but a very few settlers; made a contract for about 700 acres of land, returned home and made preparations for removing the family on to the 100 acres which he had previously purchased at Franklin, and there abide until he could complete arrangements for moving to the 8th township, (then part of Sherburne).

“In the year 1794, in August, my father hired a man to cut the timber on five acres, and sent me to cook and do what I could in the way of making preparations for removing the following winter, and he was to join us in two or three weeks and help roll up the logs for a house, and leave me to finish it as best I could. At this time there was a poor wagon road from Franklin to Oxford, and my father sent by a person going through with a wagon, a barrel with some meat, and some utensils for cooking, and also a bag of flour, to be left at Mr. Hovey's till called for by myself or his order. These articles were soon called for, and Col. Hovey sent the man who stored them to deliver them to me. They were put upon a sled, and supposed to be all right, (I had not seen the barrel which was sent from Franklin,) and we set forward. There was no road from Oxford to Sherburne excepting through what is now Norwich village, other than marked trees, and the underbrush cut out so that we could only get along with a sled, and we designed to get to a house four miles from our lot before dark; but in this we failed. Soon after sunset it grew very dark, and a heavy rain fell during nearly the whole of the night. We had a pair of oxen and a cow. We chained the oxen to a tree, secured our flour as well as we could, and waited for daylight. As soon as we could see to travel we set forward, and after travelling about one and a half miles we reached the house where we had contemplated arriving the night before.

“After drying our clothes and getting breakfast, we set forward again and arrived at Mr. Joseph Porter's, adjoining our lot, where we made our home. But judge of our surprise, when on opening our barrel, instead of meat, we found a quarter of a barrel of hayseed! A blunder justly imputable to Col. Hovey's man and myself. But what must be done? It must immediately be carried back, and I must do it. I had to travel sixty miles on bare ground, but the business was soon done.

“After a while my father came and helped to roll up the body of a log house, and then returned to Franklin, leaving me to finish it, which I did by changing works with a man who was doing a job of chopping about two miles distant. The house was finished and was called a good one. I remained on the lot until the latter part of December, and then went home to help move the family."

As to the exact date of Judge Foote's arrival at his new home in the then town of Sherburne, present Smyrna, there are different statements, but Judge Foote himself, in a record made by him in the album of his grandson, John J. Foote, Esq., now of Belvidere, Ill., written at Smyrna, in the spring of 1832, says: "In February, 1795, I removed to this place." And that may be taken as the absolutely correct date.

The following further data is copied from the same record above noted: "In the year 1798 I was elected Member of the Legislature of the state, and procured the incorporation of the County of Chenango and was appointed First Judge of the Court of Common Pleas and General Sessions of the Peace, and in 1800 I was elected Senator for four years. And in 1806 I resigned the office of First Judge and retired from all public office."

In the above memorandum Judge Foote omits to state that in 1796, and the next year after his arrival, he was chosen as the first Supervisor of Sherburne, representing the town that year at the annual meeting of the Board held at Herkimer. And in the following year, 1797, he was appointed a Justice of the Peace for the town of Sherburne. Also he omits to state that his retirement from the office of Judge was by reason of his having reached the then constitutional limitation of sixty years of age, and not because of any inability on his part to discharge the duties of that office. Such promotion to public office and such oft repeated honors bestowed, and so soon after his arrival in that town and county, are remarkable and indubitable evidence of his ability and character, and that reputation was well maintained throughout his long and useful life. In fact, Judge Foote was a unique representative character of those early times, one of the best type of the sturdy sons of rugged New England who wrought well whenever work was to be done, and who helped to lay the foundations of the state and the nation.

His religious faith was the strongest, most potent and controlling force of his life, and everything else was made subservient to it. While he was State Senator and County Judge he was active in the formation of the Society and Church on Sherburne West Hill, when the old records, largely preserved through his instrumentality, showed that he served as Trustee and Deacon and Clerk, some of the time filling all three offices. He was interested in every object which promised to conserve the best interests of the community where he lived, chief and first among which he evidently considered the Church, and to that he gave his strong and steady support. It is said of him that he was given "much to reading and writing, and especially to the study of the Sacred Scriptures, and commenting on the same, until wholly deprived of sight."

The following quaint certificate of Judge and Mrs. Foote's early church membership is here given:

Stafford, 20th October, 1796.

This certify, whom it may concern, that Isaac Foote, Esq., and Mary, his wife, were members in full communion in the church under my care and in good standing when they left this place. Esq. Foote was chosen a Deacon in this church and served in that office for a number of years before he left us, to universal acceptance. And is hereby with Mrs. Foote recommended to any Christian society or church wherever Providence may cast them.

Attest, Isaac Foster, of the First Congregational Church, Stafford.

The above letter is doubtless the one presented by Judge Foote and his wife when they united with the Old Church on Sherburne West Hill, where they remained members until Mar. 4, 1831, when they, together with their sons, Isaac, Jr., Amasa, and Hiram, also Harriet, Sally Irene, Harriet (2nd), and Sally Kellogg (Mrs. Amasa) Foote, withdrew to join the Congregational Church at Smyrna.

Judge Foote only had the benefit of the common school education of those primitive times, but that he improved it well there is abundant evidence. He was not an orator, but on occasion he was called upon to make public address.

- (3) Rev. Edward Beecher, D. D., b. Aug. 27, 1803; m. Isabella Jones, of Wiscasset, Maine. He was pastor of a Congo. Ch. in Boston, Mass. He was the third child and second son of Dr. Lyman Beecher, and was born during the pastorate of his father on the east end of Long Island from 1798 to 1810. Catherine, who died last year, was the oldest child. She spent her years and efforts in advancing female education, founding schools and seminaries for girls and teaching and writing for their benefit. She was born in 1800. William was the second child. He has served his day and generation in the ministry and now lives a retired life in Chicago. Then comes Dr. Edward Beecher, third in the line of a remarkable family. He graduated at Yale College in 1822, and studied theology at Andover and New Haven; became tutor in Yale College in 1825, and pastor of Park Street Church, Boston, in 1826, which post he held until 1831, when he went to Jacksonville, Ill., and was mainly instrumental in establishing the college at that place, of which he became its first president, and labored not only as president and professor, but also as financial agent for it. After fourteen years' service there he returned to Boston and took charge of Salem church, in the North End, where he remained twelve years and labored not only there but in revivals in other churches, and also edited the Congregationalist, the denominational organ. After this the doctor returned to Illinois and organized a church in Galesburg, the seat of Knox College, and took charge of it, at the same time giving lectures in the theological seminary in Chicago. When he resigned that charge eight years ago he settled down in Brooklyn, and has lived in that city ever since. After the doctor in the family order came George, who, while in the ministry in Wellsville, Ohio, lost his life by accident. A son of his is still in the ministry. Then comes Henry Ward Beecher, Thomas K., next, then Charles, who was for many years a pastor at Georgetown, Mass; then James, who is a pastor in the western part of New York State. Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Stowe follow in succession. The father of this family was married twice, so that the children had not all one mother.

He was the fourth son of Lyman and Roxana (Foote) Beecher. His mother died when he was but three years old; his stepmother, under whose guardianship his childhood days were spent, was an Episcopalian. Both parents were devoted Christians, his father one of the most influential of New England pastors is an important transition period of her history. Graduated from Amherst College, 1834, in his twenty-first year. From there he entered Lane Theological Seminary, Cincinnati. At the same time he engaged in Christian work as a Bible class teacher, and in journalistic work in connection with a Cincinnati paper in which he took an active part as an ardent abolitionist in the anti-slavery campaign then fairly begun. His first parish was the Presbyterian Church at Lawrenceburg, Ind., on the Ohio river. On Jan. 13, 1893, a tablet in honor of its famous preacher was dedicated and unveiled in the vestibule of Plymouth Church. The tablet is of brass and enamel, mounted on a panel of antique oak, 64 x 47 in. in size. A border of interlaced oak leaves surrounds the tablet, upon which appears a medallion bust in bronze. The inscription is: "In memoriam Henry Ward Beecher, first pastor of Plymouth Church, 1847-87. 'I have not concealed thy loving kindness and thy truth from the great congregation.'" Beecher and the Reporter.—"What name do you give your place, Mr. Beecher?"

"Oh, it's got a new name every year. What is its name this year, ma?" he called out to Mrs. Beecher, who was in the library.

"Beecher's Farm," she replied.

"I don't mean that; I mean its English name."

"Boscobel."

"Yes, that's it, Boscobel," continued Mr. Beecher, addressing the reporter. "I don't know exactly what it means, though, perhaps, it might mean beautiful bosc or woods; but I'll tell you how I came to give it this name. You remember that Charles II., after being defeated in battle, concealed himself from the enemy by hiding in the trunk of a hollow tree. That tree stood on an estate belonging to an ancestor of mine on my mother's side named Foote, who called his place Boscobel. He assisted Charles II. to escape, and the latter, on his restoration to the throne, gave my ancestor the right to wear a coat-of-arms. I have, as you see, adopted the name of the ancestral home and have also adopted the Foote coat-of-arms."

"Then you have a coat-of-arms?"

"Oh, I have two—the Beecher and the Foote," replied the eminent divine, with a smile; "one for winter and the other for summer wear."

"How long have you occupied Boscobel?"

"It's twenty-three years since I bought the ground. God made that, but I put the hair on it. I've planted between 6,000 and

.7,000 ornamental and fruit trees, in all about 450 different varieties. About eight years ago I built this house from the profits of my lecturing. Sometimes I call it my air castle, since it is built from wind."

253. JUDGE EBENEZER FOOTE, (76, 25, 9, 3,) b. Apr. 12, 1756; m. Oct. 10, 1779, Jerusha Purdy, of Westchester Co., N. Y. She d. Nov., 1818; m. 2nd, 1791, ———. Rosekrans. He d. Dec. 28, 1829, in Delhi, N. Y.

At nineteen Ebenezer was found with the Minute men at Bunker Hill; made sergeant of the Second Conn.; was at Trenton and Valley Forge; taken prisoner at the battle of Fort Washington, and confined to the old Bridewell, managed to escape, and by means of a plank found on the shore swam the Hudson in the month of December, but the exposure brought on a severe illness, and he never again could engage in active service. His patriotism, however, would not allow him to remain an outsider, and we next find him in the Commissary Department at General Washington's headquarters on the Hudson, where he remained until his health again forced his resignation just before the close of the war. He saw much of Washington; was temporarily on his Staff, and retired with the rank of Major.

One of the most interesting events of his life is well related by Mr. Abbatt, in his delightful work entitled "The Crisis of the Revolution," when Capt. Foote, in the early morning of Sept. 22, 1780, for a few moments held the fate of that gallant soldier, Major Andre, in his hands. As officer in command at Crompond, Capt. Foote scanned the pass produced by Andre, but knowing Benedict Arnold and his writing well, and seeing that his appended signature was correct, allowed the party to proceed.

After the war Major Foote engaged in a large mercantile and shipping business at Newburgh, N. Y., with his brother Justin, who later married Marie Evertson, whose sister had just married Governor Smith of Ct.

Major Foote, whose duties at headquarters caused him to ride much and far, had met and married the charming young Jerusha Purdy, of Yorktown, Westchester, N. Y., and from old tales and letters she appears to have remained a fascinator until her death.

Mr. Foote was for a long time Member of Assembly from Ulster, and was largely instrumental in procuring the setting off of Delaware Co., where he came to reside in Aug., 1797. He was Co. Clerk for a number of years, conducted an extensive land agency, and three times was appointed First or Presiding Judge, as well as acting for a short time as puisne on the bench. He represented the old Middle District for four years in the Senate of the State; was nominated for Congress, but other duties forced him to decline; sat in the Council of Appointment with Gov. Jay, and enjoyed his friendship and confidence. (See Jay Gould's History.)

In 1798 the Co. town was erected, and Judge Foote, as chief citizen, was appointed by the Legislature to name it. Not particularly desiring the honor, he said to his intimate friends at Albany, the Patroon, Gen. Schuyler, etc., "I think I shall decline." They all belonged to a small club, each member bearing some fanciful name; Senator Foote's was "The Great Mogul," and his fellow members said, "We will name it for you, and call it after your city, 'Delhi'," which was done, to the great annoyance of Gen. Root, a prominent man and politician, who had also come to reside in the place, and wished much to have the privilege of giving the name.

As Speaker of the House in 1801, he gained great credit for his "dignity and courtesy." At Delhi he assisted in organizing St. John's Church and an Academy, which for many years enjoyed a wide reputation; of the one he was made the first Senior Warden, of the other, the first President of the Board of Trustees.

In the issue of Jan. 7, 1830, "The Commercial Advertiser," New York City, (See Life of Samuel Foote) in an extended notice of his death, speaks of his integrity, of his prominence in the State, and of his beautiful mansion, Arbor Hill, on the banks of the Delaware, and of the long list of eminent men who enjoyed from time to time its hospitality. A man refined, honest and honorable in all his ways.

His niece, Roxana, married Lyman Beecher, and became the mother of Henry Ward and Mrs. H. B. Stowe. A grand-niece married William Seward, Governor and Secretary of State.

He was a man of extensive information, of great urbanity of manner, and held a conspicuous station in Town and State. For many years he represented the town in the State Legislature, and during the most of his active life was Justice of the Peace. He was remarkably active and retained the powers of his mind and body to an uncommon degree till within a few days of his death (when he took his coat down from the peg where it hung he remarked that the coat had been fourteen times to the Legislature. I have heard my mother make that statement. You must remember Connecticut at that time had two sessions a year, one session held in Hartford and one in New Haven).
- Joel Foote, Esq., son of Asa and Jerush (Carter) Foote, and fourth in descent from Nathaniel Foote, of Wethersfield, was b. June 26, 1763, in that part of the town of Colchester which was set off to Marlborough. He was liberally educated and was probably as good a type of an old school gentleman as any resident of the town.

His uprightness was proverbial, and his service in places of trust was constantly sought. He represented the town in the General Assembly twentytwo successive years, and from his general prominence won the title of the "Duke of Marlborough."

He was twice married, his first wife being Abigail Robbins Lord, daughter of Elisha Lord of Marlborough, who died at an early age, leaving four children.

His second wife was Rachel Lord, daughter of Samuel P. Lord, of East Haddam. Eight children were born of this marriage. His death occurred at Marlborough July 12, 1846, at the age of 83 years.

HOMER NASH KIMBALL. No. 1242 (2bi)

Simon Fort

No. 1014

1014. i. SOLOMON, b. at Cornwall, Vt., Nov. 19, 1802; m. 1st, 1839, Emily, dau. of William Fay, of Rutland, Vt. To them was b. a dau., Ellen Eliza, who died Mar. 14, 1841, ae. 10 months. The mother d. May 2, 1842, ae. 26. He m. 2nd Mary Ann, wid. of William Dana, and dau. of Henry Hodges, of Clarendon, Vt. She was b. Apr. 16, 1805; d. Aug. 5, 1881.

Solomon Foote, Senator, representative in Congress for nineteen years, like Bradley and Edmunds long president pro. tem. of the Senate, and among the greatest of the succession of remarkable men Vermont has kept in the Senate, with hardly an exception, from the beginning, was a native of the State. His father died when young Solomon was only nine years old, and the boy was left to the training of an intelligent and prayerful mother. With intermissions of farm work and teaching of district schools to earn money, he fitted for college and graduated from Middlebury in 1826. For the next five years, except one year while he was a tutor at Middlebury, he was preceptor of Castleton Academy, and Professor of Natural Philosophy at the Vermont Medical School at that place. He reestablished the Academy on a broader basis, erected a handsome and spacious edifice, and, indeed, achieved a large success as a pedagogue, as he did with everything he took hold of in life.

But while teaching he had pursued the study of law; was admitted to the bar in 1831, and established himself in practice at Rutland. He at once plunged into politics, attracted attention the next year with an address which he issued in favor of Clay for President and against the re-election of Jackson, and from this time until his death he was almost constantly before the public. Rutland sent him to the Legislature in 1833, again in 1836-'37-'38, he being Speaker in the last two sessions, and freshly enhancing his reputation by the ease and ability with which he discharged the duties. From 1836 to 1842 he was State's Attorney for Rutland County, and in the latter year was elected representative in Congress as an ardent Whig, a follower of Clay, and a repudiator of Tyler. His first appearance on the floor was to present a petition for the "protection of American producers against the unfriendly and ruinous competition of foreign nations."

His first speech, June 4, 1844, was in the same line, and this was his position as long as he was in Congress. He was one of the Republicans to vote against the low tariff bill of 1857. He, of course, fought the Walker tariff bill of 1846 strenuously. He earnestly opposed the admission of Texas and the Mexican War, whose purpose he declared to be simply to obtain more territory for slavery, and denounced the measures of the Polk administration almost uniformly, and especially its construction of the Oregon boundary question. He made a hot speech Feb. 10, 1847, full of "scornful defiance" of the President for his intimation that those who censured the conduct of the Executive in carrying on the war were guilty of constructive treason. He was one of the three intrepid men who came to the rescue of Giddings of Ohio when Dawson of Louisiana, supported by four other Southerners, pistol in hand, threatened to shoot him for his denunciation of the "brutal coarseness" and "moral putridity" of slavery, and when it looked for a time as if the floor of Congress was to be a general shooting ground.

He served in the House two terms, and refused a re-election in 1841 to return to the practice of law. But he was the next fall sent to the Legislature by Rutland, and reelected in 1848, and again was Speaker of that body, and in 1850 he was elected to the Senate to succeed Judge Phelps, and this was the arena where he won his largest fame. He was prominent in the debates over the Kansas question against the admission of the state under the Lecompton constitution. He opposed the scheme for the acquisition of Cuba, justified the action of Commodore Paulding in the arrest of William Walker, whose filibustering expedition to South America he recognized as a scheme of the slavery extensionists. He was a participant in the discussion of all Central American matters, and strenuous in insisting that England should give up her protectorate over the Mosquito territory. He served with Jeff Davis as a commissioner to reorganize the course of study and discipline at West Point. He was a strong advocate of governmental construction of a railroad to the Pacific coast. He carried through the bills for the erection of a custom house at Burlington and court houses at Windsor and Rutland, and for the improvement of the breakwater at Burlington. He served industriously on the committees on pensions, post-offices and post roads, revolutionary claims, public lands, pensions, contingent claims and foreign relations, rising steadily by the care and thoroughness of his work to a position of leadership. He supervised the enlargement of the capitol and the erection of other government structures. He was chairman of the committee of arrangements for the inauguration of President Lincoln.

When the extra session of Congress was convened on account of the war, July 4, 1861, Mr. Foote was unanimously elected president pro tempore, and through the whole of this, the whole of the Thirty-seventh and a part of the Thirty-eighth Congress he continued in this position. During the trying days of the war he did not appear on the floor so much as he had before done, evidently regarding speech-making as a needless waste of energy when there was so much work to be done, and the party in power had things all their own way anyhow. On several important occasions, however, he kicked out of party traces. He voted against the Legal Tender Act because he regarded it as clearly unconstitutional, and against Sumner's Bill in 1861 to wipe out slavery in the proposed new state of West Virginia as a prerequisite to its admission. He was a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1864. One of his last speeches in the Senate was that of Jan. 12, 1865, in favor of terminating the Canadian reciprocity treaty. He was with the leaders of his party in sharp antagonism to President Johnson and his policy, but died Mar. 28, 1866, before the crisis in that struggle came, though he clearly foresaw it.

In the name of God Amen. I Solomon Foote of Rutland in the County of Rutland and State of Vermont, being of sound and deposing mind and memory though infirm and weak in health, do make and declaim this to be my last will and testament.

I give and bequeath all my property and estate, both real and personal, to my beloved wife, Mary Ann, to be hers forever, subject to the following conditions: it is my will and desire that the money I have loaned to my brother Jonathan Foote, and which is embraced in two notes, executed by him to me, one for $9,000.00 and the other for $3,000, be suffered to remain in his hands so long as he lives, he paying the interest thereon of 8 per cent. per annum stipulated in semi-annual instalments to my said wife after the liquidation of the payment of which said interest is pledged, and if the said Jonathan shall survive my wife I give and bequeath to him the money so loaned to him. And order and direct said notes to be canceled.

And whereas I have procured and deposited on my lot in the Cemetery in East Rutland the material for a monument it is my will and desire that a monument be constructed from said material on said lot in conformity with a plan prepared by U. S. Walker, U. S. architect, now in the care of I. I. R. Randall, that the said lot be suitably prepared and that the remains of my former wife and child be removed and interred herein. And I appoint my esteemed friend, John B. Page, of said Rutland, executor of this my last will and testament.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 14th day of March, A. D. 1864.

SOLOMON FOOTE.

The monument referred to above is situated on the highest point of ground in Evergreen Cemetery, Rutland, Vt. It is built from Barre granite. The inscription on the south side of the monument is: "Solomon Foote, born in Cornwall, Vt., Nov. 19, A. D. 1802. Died in Washington, D. C., March 28th, 1866, in the third term of his service as a Senator of the United States from his native State." North side: "Expiring, he raised his eyes towards Heaven and exclaimed: 'I see it! I see it! the gates are wide open; beautiful! beautiful!'"

Ch., all b. in Madison, O., and live there now: (i) Homer Nash, b. Oct. 11, 1867; d. in Madison, Aug. 31, 1904; unm. He was b. on the farm near Madison, O., where his parents and grand-parents had lived since 1812. The Kimball family is one of the oldest in the Western Reserve, coming west when the country was only sparsely settled and living on the same farm continuously. They came from New Hampshire, and the whole family, fathers and mothers, are of New England birth and training, and those of every branch have descended from Revolutionary stock. He was educated in the public school and high school of Madison, and graduated from Oberlin College in 1890. In 1892 he was chosen superintendent of the village schools at Madison, where his excellent management and scholastic attainments have contributed much to make them the best in that part of the State. Mr. Kimball served since 1891 continuously as Clerk, Councilman and Mayor of Madison, and also for a term of eight years on the County Board of School Examiners for Lake County. He was a Republican in politics. His father and grandfather were among the staunch adherents of that faith in a section that has always been known as the Gibraltar of Republicanism in Ohio. Being busily engaged in his duties as teacher and superintendent, Mr. Kimball had but little time to work in politics, but at the urgent request of his home people he accepted the nomination for Representative in 1901. He was elected in the fall of that year by a very large majority, and re-elected in 1903. While a member of the Seventy-fifth and Seventy-sixth General Assemblies, Mr. Kimball had an active part in the codification of the municipal and school laws of the State. He had been engaged in several business enterprises, had served on the Board of Directors of two banks, and was one of the owners of the Madison "Review," a weekly paper of quality published in Madison. At the age of 8 years he went to live with his brother-in-law, Jesse Trapp, on a farm about three miles northwest of Dryden, attending the "Gee School" winters and farming summers. At the age of 15 he went to live with his brother, Jacob Johnson, on a farm, where he remained until the age of 21, when he and his brother Jacob and family moved to Rock Island, Ill. In Mar., 1857, he returned to Dryden, and on Tuesday, Mar. 31, was m. to Helen Eliza McLean in Courtland, N. Y. The first four years of married life was spent on rented farms. Three years in Rock Island Co. and one year at Big Rock, Iowa. In 1861 he bought a farm of 40 acres about one mile east of Milan, increasing it to 400 acres in the course of 18 years. He was a member and elder of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Milan, Ill., from 1860, to Mar. 1, 1900, and Superintendent of the same Sunday School from May, 1869, to Mar. 1, 1900, when he retired from farming and moved to Rock Island, Ill., where he now res. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Easter Sunday, Mar. 31, 1907, having been m. 50 years on that date at Courtland, Tompkins Co., N. Y., by Rev. Albert S. Graves, a minister of the M. E. Church. The couple immediately came to Milan, then known as Camden Mills, and started their married life on a farm about 2½ miles south of Milan, on the Hoover farm. A notable feature of the dinner was the two roast geese that laid golden eggs for the honored couple. Another was the bride's cake, a surprise for the bride from her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Johnson, of Beaumont, Tex. This cake was unique in view of the fact that the frosting which covered the dainty golden confection was incrustated with gold dollars set into the icing, one for each year of married life of the couple. These were all of rare coinage and all bore the date of the year of the wedding fifty years ago. In addition there were other gold dollars, souvenirs for each of the guests about the table, which will serve to keep the memory of this gathering green. With the dessert there were other golden gifts showered on the couple honored on this occasion. Among these was a new gold wedding ring to take the place of the worn band that has graced the worn hand for half a century. All of the living descendants of the couple, their children with their husbands, wives and children, 16 in all, were present as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Collins Dysart and son George, of Dixon, Ill., also their dau., Ruth, who is a student at the Northwestern University at Evanston; Mr. and Mrs. W. - Samuel Foote and Sibbil Doolittle were m. at Hinsdale, near Northfield, Aug. 8, 1794. About three years later (1797) they removed from Gill with their only child (Elial Todd Foote) to the Chenango country, then almost a wilderness, and settled in the west part of Sherburne, afterwards called Smyrna. Mr. Samuel Foote did not long remain in the west part of the town, but, as stated by his son, Elial T. Foote, "soon after 1800, he bought at Sherburne West Hill, and moved there; built and opened a country tavern opposite Lansing's (afterwards Lynde's) store. In 1806 he built his large front addition (the present Sexton house). I recollect in June, 1806, at the time of the great eclipse, I was with father at Lathrop's sawmill for a load of boards to finish that house. I remember Mr. Lansing well. He boarded with our father while there, and so did both of the Lyndes (Tilly and Charles W.) for years."

Again, in speaking of the old Sherburne West Hill Church, of which Samuel Foote and Sibbil, his wife, and Sedate, his sister, were early members, Elial T. Foote says: "I recollect the erection of the meeting house there, and the installation of the Rev. Joshua Knight. Our father (the letter from which this is an extract was directed to his brother Erastus, then living in Milwaukee, Wis.), from his hard labor did much to build that meeting house and sustain the society." And again: "Our father was the first postmaster in Sherburne, appointed by General Granger in 1803. The mails from Cooperstown to Homer, and from Utica to Oxford crossed at West Hill." That made it an important business centre, and showed its growing interest, for prior to 1803, the post office, as Hatch's history informs us, had been located at the James Elmore store on the east side of the river, he having been, according to the same authority, "the first postmaster appointed in the place, his commission bearing date of January, 1801," which accordingly antedates Mr. Foote's appointment, though doubtless he was the first postmaster at Sherburne West Hill. As the result of Mr. Foote's unwillingness to submit to the rules of the church, which inhibited dancing, as stated in the history of the Old Church, he received a dismissal therefrom in July, 1811, and soon after that time disposed of his inn, which afterwards came into the possession of the late Frederick Sexton, by whose descendants it is still occupied as a residence.

In 1817 Mr. Samuel Foote removed to Plymouth, Chenango Co., where with a few others he was instrumental in building the First Congregational Church, and settling the first minister. He was elected deacon of this church. About the year 1828 he and his wife removed to Chautauqua Co., where most of their children had settled.

In 1832 his wife, Sibbil Doolittle, died at their home near Jamestown, N. Y. He was deacon of the First Presbyterian Church in Jamestown for some fifteen years prior to his death, which occurred while on a visit to the home of his son, Obed Foote, at Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 25, 1848, at the age of 78. He was a warm hearted, sincere Christian, devoted in his love for his Saviour. He was buried at Fulton St. Cemetery, Grand Rapids. Res., Gill, Mass., Sherburn, N. Y.

1604. iv. MARTHA KINGSLEY, b. July 1, 1822; m. Horatio Clinton Faling (or Fayling), of Franklin, N. Y., on Feb. 7, 1843. It was a double wedding, her sister, Maria H., marrying Lloyd Woodruff on the same date. Horatio Faling was b. June 30, 1821. After the birth of their two sons they moved to Kalamazoo, Mich., where he engaged in business as a merchant and importer. He made frequent trips east, though travelling was very difficult at that early period, before a railroad was built in that section. He was a man of literary tastes and had a good library. Although in poor health, he volunteered during the Civil War (Company C, 28th Michigan Infantry), and after gallant service died in the Army on Dec. 4, 1864, at Mumfordsville, Kentucky. She d. June 30, 1883, at Kalamazoo, Mich. Ch.: (1) Ichabod DeWitt Faling, b. Franklin, N. Y., Nov. 23, 1843, and was educated in Kalamazoo, Mich., and after much experience all over the United States as telegraph operator, train dispatcher, etc., became Superintendent of Telegraph, and finally General Superintendent, for several Western Railroad Companies. He finally located at Portland, Ore. He was shot and killed in the streets of San Francisco, California, by an enemy, on Apr. 16, 1888. (2) Abram Clinton Faling, of Kalamazoo, Mich., b. at Franklin, N. Y., Dec. 22, 1845; m. in Peru, Indiana, Celia Frances Loveland, dau. of Hon. E. P. Loveland, of Peru, Indiana, on Nov. 12, 1867. He was once a newspaper man, but is now an official of the Michigan Central Railroad Company, having been in the service of that Company for many years. He res. in Kalamazoo, Mich. He is a Thirty-second Degree Mason, a member of the "Mystic Shrine," etc., and is very prominent in Masonic circles. He is a collector of old and rare books, and his private library is a noted and valuable one. He is frequently consulted, as an authority, by Bibliophiles. She was b. at Peru, Indiana, Nov. 25, 1846. Ch.: (a) Lloyd Randolph DeWitt Faling (or Fayling), b. at Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 5, 1875; unm. He has been in the regular military service, but has lately returned to civil life, and is at present the General Manager of a New York Corporation. He has also been a newspaper man, Editor, War Correspondent, and has travelled extensively in many countries. After participating in several filibustering expeditions to Cuba as War Correspondent, he entered the Secret Service of the Cuban Junta, with the rank of Lieutenant, but was soon transferred to the Line and saw much hard fighting in Cuba in 1896-97 under General Gomez. He was promoted to the rank of Captain for gallant service, and later received the brevet-rank of Major. He was twice captured by the Spanish, but escaped, the last time to the United States, a physical wreck from the effects of hard service in the Tropics. He soon recovered his health and raised the first Volunteer Company for the Spanish-American War to respond to the call in the State of Ohio. He held the rank of Captain. Major Fayling was at Galveston, Texas, during the great hurricane and flood of Sept. 8, 1900; rescued 43 persons at the peril of his own life; took command of the city, under martial law, and restored and maintained law and order. He formed a battalion of the handful of survivors of Battery O, 1st U. S. Regular Artillery and Militiamen, whom he drafted into service, and was in absolute command of the city under martial law until relieved by the Adjutant-General of Texas, with the most of the National Guard of that State. The authorities approved of his work and he received the official thanks of the city of Galveston, through the Mayor, who said officially, in a letter of thanks, that "Major Fayling's work was the saving of the city." Major Fayling also received a gold medal, costing several hundred dollars, from citizens of Texas, inscribed "For Bravery," and with an account of his services. (b) Lulu Ruth, b. at Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 2, 1877; unm. She was educated at the Kalamazoo High School, the State Normal College, at Ypsilanti, Mich., and the University of Mich. She is at present a teacher in the Kalamazoo High School. (c) Glenn Roy Clinton, b. at Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 7, 1878. Upon graduating from the Kalamazoo High School in 1897 he entered the service of the Michigan Central Railroad as a telegraph operator, and continued in that employment until 1901, when he resigned in order to study law. In 1904 he was graduated from the Law Department of the University of Michigan, and in the same year was admitted to practice in the States of Michigan and Ohio and in the Federal Courts. He has since been engaged in the practice of his profession in Toledo, Ohio, where he has offices, Numbers 315, 317 and 319, in the Spitzer Building. As a railroad man he was active in labor organization, his work having been largely instrumental in securing for his fellow employees increased wages and better conditions of labor. He is the author of recent legislation requiring the placing of adequate fenders on street cars, and has been active in civic betterment work. (d) Abram Foote, b. at Kalamazoo, Apr. 8, 1880; d. He was admitted an Attorney in the Supreme Court of the State of New York in Jan., 1813, and a Counselor in Jan., 1816. He entered into partnership with his brother on being admitted an Attorney. He practiced law in Albany until May, 1828, when he removed to the city of New York. He was appointed District Attorney for the city and county of Albany, under the administration of Governor Clinton, in July, 1819, and held the office until Feb., 1821, when he was removed to make room for the Hon. Benjamin Butler, who was appointed in his place.

In 1831 his Alma Mater, Union College, conferred upon him the honorary degree of Master of Arts, and in 1844 Geneva College also honored him with the degree of Doctor of Laws. On April 10, 1851, he was appointed by Gov. Hunt, without his knowledge or solicitation, as Presiding Judge of the Court of Appeals, to fill the unexpired term of Judge Bronson, resigned. His appointment was universally approved. The following is a comment upon his appointment by one of the leading journals of the State:

“The Hon. Samuel A. Foote has been appointed, by Governor Hunt, the successor to Judge Bronson, resigned—a very exceptionable selection. Mr. Foote is an eminent lawyer and upright man, possessing qualifications and traits of character especially adapting him to discharge the high functions of the station with great ability and approbation. Mr. Foote has been extensively engaged in his profession for over 25 years. He removed from Albany to this city in 1828, where he since practiced in the higher courts—having the last two years spent a portion of his time at his seat at Geneva. It is a subject of real congratulation when such a man as Mr. Foote is elevated to the Bench. In all his personal habits and dispositions Mr. Foote is admirably adapted for judicial service—diligent and methodical, patient and mild, constant and just—we have the best assurances that, while enlightened justice will be dispensed and the purest judicial rectitude observed, true dignity and conciliatory deportment will also be displayed by the appointee.—New York Herald, April 11, 1851.”

The Whig Convention, held at Syracuse in Sept. of the same year, nominated him as their candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals for the eight year term, commencing in Jan. of the following year, but the Whig party met with defeat at the general election.

In 1853 Hobart College likewise conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. In 1855 the Republicans of Ontario Co., during his absence, and without his knowledge, nominated him as their candidate for the General Assembly. This was his first affiliation with the Republican Party, and while he preferred the quiet home life which at this age he had so well earned and richly deserved, yet he felt it his duty to accept and was elected by a large majority. He was also nominated and elected the following year. During his two terms in the General Assembly he earned the cognomen of “Watch Dog of the Treasury.”

At and after this period Judge Foote devoted most of his time to the general pursuits of agriculture at his seat in Geneva, and to the rearing of his large family, appearing only in the higher Courts of the State in important cases. He d. May 11, 1878, at Geneva, N. Y.

He was a graduate of Williams College, and afterwards entered into what promised to be a brilliant career in the practice of law in New York City with his father, but was compelled on account of his health to go to Minnesota where, at the beginning of the Civil War, he enlisted and served a short time as Captain of 2nd Minn. Regt. (Infantry), and was in the battle of Mills Springs, Ky., one of the first engagements of the war. His health broke down at that time, and he proceeded to his father's home in Geneva, N. Y., to die, and was in the service at the time of his death. He d. Mar. 13, 1862, at Geneva, N. Y.

1715. iii. SAMUEL CAMPBELL, b. N. Y. City, June 15, 1836. Served during a part of the Civil War as executive officer on the gun-boat “Stars and Stripes,” and his vessel participated in several engagements; he was in the naval service at the time of his death. He d. June 12, 1862, at Milburn, N. J., of fever.

was a natural student, preferring study to farming. As a young man he would have liked to have entered the ministry, but his father having left a very large farm to be looked after it seemed necessary that he, the youngest child, should remain on the homestead. He was well versed in all historical literature, both ancient and modern, and knew the Bible literally by heart. While he was still a young man he journeyed on horseback for a number of winters through some of the western states, principally Ill. and Wis., preaching and helping to establish church organizations in new settlements. The Reverend Lewis Ray (Rhea) Foote, D. D., had a remarkably useful and interesting career as a minister in Brooklyn, N. Y., for a whole generation. He was the most efficient pastor of the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church, and a potent factor in the life of his city for 32 years. It is a rare thing for a clergyman to find his life work in one pastorate (as was his), and one in which the young man and the young church grow to maturity and great influence together.

He was the youngest son of Dr. Dan Foote and Sarah Conover Gordon, and was b. in South New Berlin, N. Y. His mother was a descendant of the Rheas and Gordons of Monmouth Co., N. J., families that had lived in that section for many years prior to the Revolution, and whose homestead farm was the scene of the Battle of Monmouth. His mother died when Lewis Ray was three years of age, and his lonely, motherless childhood was spent with relatives in Sherburne, N. Y., near the place of his birth. At 14 he became self supporting, working as a farm laborer. This life on the farm laid the foundation of a rugged constitution, and there was implanted the germ of a profound love of nature which was fostered, not only by his intimate association with nature and his personal observations, but by the reverent habit of recognizing God as the author of it all. The memory of these early hardships gave him the power of an intelligent sympathy with those who toil. Throughout his whole life he found a spiritual uplift, physical and mental rest, in God's great outdoors.

When 15 years of age he gave his heart to Christ and became a member of the Congregational Church at Sherburne. That step was taken deliberately and at a time of no unusual religious effort. It was a complete surrender and the logical result of his naturally spiritual temperament.

He was a tall manly-looking boy, and there was no hesitation on the part of the recruiting officers to accept him when he enlisted for the war in Sept., 1861. He served one year in the 61st N. Y. Vol. Infantry Regt., from Sept. 1861 to 1862, and was honorably discharged because of a wound received at Fair Oaks June 1st, 1862.

Upon recovering his health he entered Dr. Holbrook's preparatory school at Clinton, N. Y., and in the fall of 1865 matriculated in the freshman class of Hamilton College, from which he graduated in June, 1869. He was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and was an excellent student, ranking particularly high in oratory. After his graduation from Union Theological Seminary in 1872, he was for a year engaged in mission work in New York City. He assumed his duties as pastor of the Throop Avenue Church Nov. 1, 1873, and continued till his death, Dec. 19, 1906.

This church was organized in 1862 and had but a handful of members when Dr. Foote entered upon his work, but it was located in a growing city where the vigorous and consecrated young man soon saw the fruits of his efforts. During the first 25 years the annual increase in church membership averaged close to a hundred, over half of whom were members of the Sabbath School, and united with the church on the profession of their faith. From 1885 to 1895 the church was famous for having under its care the largest Sabbath School in the Presbyterian connection in the United States. Throughout the 32 years of Dr. Foote's pastorate the amount of money given for benevolent purposes, on the average, exceeded that used for church expenses by about a thousand dollars annually, notwithstanding the fact that a new, handsome edifice was erected in 1890, which was never encumbered by a debt.

Dr. Foote was essentially a pastor. He knew his people in their homes. A prominent minister of his city said of him: "A truer friend never lived. He was a friend who would rebuke but always in love; he would advise but always with deference to the judgment and the conviction of those to whom he gave advice. He rejoiced in the success that came to a friend and sorrowed in his sorrow." He lived in a singular atmosphere of love. He was absolutely permeated with his religion. He lived it and gloried in it.

Dr. Foote believed in civic righteousness and was a fearless denouncer of political corruption. Next to his God he loved his country. He was a careful student of public issues and was always alert and ready to speak, work and cast his vote for the promotion of good government. The following is from the pen of one of the young men of his church and appeared in the press at the time of his death: "Dr. Foote was a man's man—one who, analyzed by the searching scrutiny that men are prone to give to clergymen, stood the test grandly, and for a third of a century was the exemplar of practical Christianity and lofty patriotism. Men loved and trusted him, confident in his genuineness and his belief in every word that he preached."

As to theology, Dr. Foote was a conservative. Included in the resolutions adopted by the Brooklyn Presbytery is the following: "Dr. Foote believed with all his soul that the Scriptures are the inspired revelation of God, that the Gospel is true and is the power of God unto the salvation of men. He was sure of his faith. It was clear, strong, positive, affirmative. In the secret places of his soul he had proved it, therefore he could defend it—and he did. He stood foursquare to all the theological winds that blew. It was a tonic to faith to know him and to hear him."

- Isaac Foote, Jr., came to the then town of Sherburne, in 1794, in company with his father, when only 18 years of age. His son, Isaac 3rd, of Norwich, in a published communication, says of him: "He remained at home until 26 years old, with the exception of a year spent in the Academy at Clinton, where he took the highest honors. He helped to clear his father's farm and at the age above named (26) he received from him the part of the farm afterwards owned by Nelson Bowers. On Dec. 4, 1802, he m. Miss Harriet Hyde, b. Feb. 18, 1784, at Lenox, Mass., dau. of Gen. Caleb Hyde, of Lisle, N. Y. When he went to Lisle to be m. he rode one horse and led another for the use of the bride on their wedding trip. After their marriage they started back for Smyrna, accompanied by a brother of my mother, who drove a cow and ten sheep, the setting out which she received from her father. It required four days to make the journey, the road then being mostly through the wilderness, and followed by marked trees. There were only occasional settlements where they could obtain food and lodgings. The last night on their way they stopped at a tavern kept by Hascall Ransford, which stood a short distance south of the Lamb place."

The following is from a memorandum by his own hand, date of Apr. 13, 1848: "At the age of 21 years I was chosen Constable and Collector, to which office I was appointed six or seven years in succession, and until I declined the appointment. At the age of 23 I was appointed Under Sheriff of the County of Chenango, and was the first that was so appointed after the county was organized, which office I held for nine years and under three different Sheriffs, all of a different political creed from that which I had adopted. In the year 1808 was chosen a Deacon in the Second Congregational Church (Sherburne West Hill), and subsequently chosen to the same office in the First Congregational Church in Smyrna, which office, though unworthy, I still hold. In 1803 was appointed to the office of Adjutant of the Regiment then commanded by Col. Benjamin Hovey; served five years and resigned. In the year 1810 was appointed High Sheriff of the County of Chenango, and held the office 3 years. In the year 1814 was appointed Agent for the Hon. Egbert Benson, the Executor of the Hon. John Lawrence, of New York; continued his Agent until the estate was divided between the heirs, by whom I was chosen to make the division of their lands in Chenango County, which was done to their acceptance. Also was intrusted with the making of the division between the heirs aforesaid and Daniel McCormick, Esq., of New York, who was joint owner with Judge Lawrence, of the town of Smyrna, and that division was also accepted. Was afterwards Agent for the heirs of Judge Lawrence and Daniel McCormick, Esq., also for four of the Livingston family, who owned four-fifths of the town of Otselic, which has all been sold, the purchase money paid, and my agency satisfactorily closed. The land so committed to my care in Smyrna, Plymouth, Columbus, Norwich and Otselic, I suppose in all amounted to about 30,000 acres."

Amasa Foote, son of Judge Isaac Foote, settled in Smyrna on the farm south of and adjoining P. D. Nearing's, where he lived until the infirmities of age incapacitated him for such work. He then sold his farm and removed to Hamilton, where he lived until his death at 92 years of age. Was eminently a Christian man, a Deacon in the Congregational Church for many years, and seemed to take more interest in upbuilding the Church than he did his own affairs. Was a man of strict integrity, was a Captain of the Militia, and frequently elected Supervisor and Justice of the Peace. He married Sarah Kellogg, of Colchester, Ct., in Aug., 1805, in which affair it is said he got the better of Tilly Lynde, then a young merchant on Sherburne West Hill, who was enamored of her charms. They had Asahel, Sally, Mary, Edward, Betsey and William. Asahel, b. Aug. 31, 1807, who studied theology, was drowned in the river at Greene, in July, 1837, while in bathing, soon after entering the ministry. The writer has often heard the sad story from his father, who knew the young man well.

After attending school at the old Oneida Academy at Clinton, he studied law in the office of Judge Hubbard at Hamilton, commencing in 1809, and was admitted to practice in 1813, so continuing in his chosen profession until old age. He became eminent as a counsellor-at-law, and solicitor in chancery, and in the District Court of the United States. He early became pronounced in his anti-slavery sentiments, and also espoused the cause of temperance, being a life-long advocate of total abstinence. At 91 years of age he delivered an able address on the subject of temperance. He was one of the charter members of the Congregational Church of Hamilton, and for nearly 50 years was one of its Deacons and its Church Clerk. In all the ways and walks of life he was a consistent, devoted Christian. An honest man, whose integrity and uprightness were always above reproach. An inspiring life to contemplate. He helped to organize Gainesville Creek Church. He lived most of the time in or near Eagle Valley, N. Y. He was one of the first in Eagle Valley Church. He drew the first stick of timber and the first load of stone to build the church with. He came there when the country was new. People lived in log houses, and neighbors were few and scattering. Though he found it difficult to live and support quite a large family, still if anything was neglected, it was something of a worldly nature, and never his God or the cause of his Savior. Indeed he was a pillar in the church; and in a religious point of view he was truly an extraordinary man. He d. Nov. 18, 1876.

983. CAPT. ALVAN FOOTE, (308, 92, 27, 9, 3,) b. May 29, 1777; m. Sept. 27, 1798, Sarah, dau. of Elisha Percival, of Lee, Mass. She was b. Lenox, 1779; d. in Lee, Jan. 24, 1867, ae. 88 years.

Of their eight ch., four sons were pioneers in the settlement of Ohio. Three daus. became teachers. One, the mother of Rev. Dr. Alvin Foote Sherrill, was chosen assistant to Mary Lyon at Mt. Holyoke. Marshall Foote was the son to remain on the farm, where his well spent life was closed in 1894 at the age of 88 years.

In 1757 Jonathan Foote came from Colchester, Ct., and secured by purchase and by grant 1,200 acres of land. He sold some of it to settlers and reserved enough for a farm for each of his three sons. To his son Alvan he gave the farm upon which the residence is located. It consists of 225 acres, including woodlands and contains extensive deposits of sand which have supplied the town for building purposes for many years. Alvan selected this place for a house which he built in 1797. It was burned in 1814 and the present house was erected in the same year. It is one of the best preserved of the old Colonial houses in this part of the State.

Alvan Foote was early in life imbued with the spirit of '76 and organized a company of militia of which he was chosen captain, and for many years he led his company at the "annual trainings," which day was a holiday enjoyed by the whole population. In 1797 he m. Sally Percival, dau. of Capt. Elisha Percival, of Lenox. On the 60th anniversary of their marriage the first golden wedding ever celebrated in Lee was attended by a large company of friends. The aged couple enjoyed seven years of wedded life after that event. Capt. Foote d. in his 96th year.

Capt. Foote was b. and always lived on the farm inherited from his father and grandfather. He was a Captain of Militia, a prominent farmer, and highly respected citizen. In 1798 he built a house, m. the dau. of Capt. Elisha Percival, of Lenox, and began a happy and useful life in a home still owned and occupied by his descendants. He d. Sept. 6, 1872.

(1) Prof. Winfield Scott Hall, b. Jan. 5, 1861, at Batavia, Ill.; m. Oct. 11, 1888, Jeannette, dau. of William N. and Mary (Abbott) Winter. She was b. Dec. 15, 1860. On Jan. 5, 1861, a son was b. to Albert N. Hall and Adelia Foote Hall. When a name was chosen, Lincoln had made his second call for volunteers, war was in the air, and the boy was christened Winfield Scott. In a few weeks Albert N. Hall marched away with the Fifty-second Illinois to join Ulysses S. Grant's command in Western Kentucky. He took part in the engagements at Paducah, Fort Donelson, Shiloh and Corinth. A wound at Corinth retired him from the firing line for the rest of the war. Returning from the war in 1865, three years were required to so far mend his broken fortunes that Albert N. Hall could, with his family, now increased by a second son, join the great tide of army veterans who were going west to locate "soldiers' homesteads." Locating temporarily near Nebraska City, he later moved to the frontier, and took a homestead near Hastings, Nebraska, where he has remained to see a trackless plain develop into a thickly settled and prosperous community, with fine schools, numerous churches, and other marks of prosperity and progress. The pioneer life with its privations and its adventures tended to develop the best that was in Winfield S. Hall. The names of Lincoln and Grant were household words, and the lives of these and others of the nation's heroes were ever held up by the parents as examples of what may be accomplished by overcoming difficulties. A difficulty was defined as something to be squarely faced and promptly overcome. The word "failure" was not in the vocabulary. The fact that schools were elementary in grade and accessible only in winter was no reason why one should not receive an education. With the father's encouragement and the mother's guidance, Winfield studied mornings and evenings in winter and continued the studies through the summer, carrying Latin paradigms or mathematical problems to the field and mastering them while at work. In the fall of 1881 he entered the Freshman class of the Northwestern University, choosing the course in Modern Languages, Mathematics and the Natural Sciences. At the end of the Sophomore year his success may be measured by his winning of the prize in Botany and receiving "special mention" in Mathematics. The meagre savings of his teaching all exhausted, it now became necessary for him to earn his way as he went. Having decided to enter the medical profession, he entered the Chicago Medical College, which was affiliated with the Northwestern University, and earned his first year's expenses by delivering morning papers. The pittance ($3.25 per week) received for his seven-mile jaunt before breakfast every morning had to be expended very judiciously to cover the items of board, room, fuel, laundry, books and clothing. In the following spring he was put in charge of the Evanston Boat Club's house and boats, a position which brought him again into touch with the college life which he had left so regretfully and which he longed to enter again. The following year he resumed his Liberal Arts studies, and received in 1887, from Northwestern University, the degree of Bachelor of Science, graduating with general honors in scholarship. During his Senior year in college he was made instructor in Mathematics and Science in the Chicago Athenæum, teaching evening classes. This position solved the financial problem, and the opportunities for day classes and private tutoring in summer enabled him to have a bank balance of $500 at the end of his medical course. The medical studies were resumed, and in Apr., 1888, he received from the Chicago Medical College the degree of Doctor of Medicine. At graduation from the medical school he won the Ingalls Prize of $100, given by Ephraim Ingalls to the one who should pass the best examination in the whole field of Language, Literature, History, Mathematics, Chemistry, Physics, Biology, Astronomy, Geology, and the whole medical course of three years. He won also the Fowler prize of a $100 set of oculist's test lenses, for the best examination in theoretical and applied optics. He also won an internship in Mercy Hospital, Chicago. On Oct. 11, 1888, Dr. Hall m. Jeannette Winter, and entered upon his internship in Nov. During the year in Mercy Hospital he made a special study of a number of cases of Pathology, and on a thesis entitled "The Relation of Pathology to the Evolution Theory," received in June, 1889, from Northwestern University, the degree of Master of Science. About this time Dr. Hall received a call to the Chair of Biology at Haverford College, Pennsylvania. Accepting the call, he spent a semester at Harvard in special preparation for his new position. The four years spent at Haverford were years of the most intense activity. His teaching covered the whole field of Biology. Besides his work in Biology, he was Medical Director of the Athletic Work and the Medical Examiner at Haverford, and at the William Penn Charter School of Philadelphia. Anthropometric data collected in these examinations formed the basis of an extended research which occupied much of his vacation time at Haverford, and which was finally finished in Europe. In June, 1893, Dr. Hall resigned his position at Haverford, and with Mrs. Hall went to Leipzig, Germany, where both entered the University, Dr. Hall taking up a special line of work in Physiology with the great master, Carl Ludwig, while Mrs. Hall continued, under Leukhart, biological studies pursued for four years in Haverford. In May, 1894, Dr. Hall completed a dissertation entitled "Die Resorption des Carniferins," based upon his work in Ludwig's Laboratory. Having attended the clinics of Thiersch, Curschmann, Zweifel and Schoen, he came before the Medical Faculty as a candidate for a degree. Passing the examination successfully, he received in June, 1894, the degree of Doctor of Medicine from Leipzig University. He began at once, under the anthropologist Emil Schmidt, to complete the anthropological research begun four years before in Philadelphia. Choosing Anthropology as a major subject, and Zoology and Botany as minor subjects, he registered in the Department of Philosophy of Leipzig University as a candidate for the Doctor's degree, all requirements of which were satisfied, and the degree of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy granted, in Nov., 1894. The dissertation entitled "Changes in the Proportions of the Human Body During the Period of Growth" was written in English for publication in London. After this, Dr. Hall studied a year in Zurich, Switzerland, where he conducted research work in nutrition, publishing at the end of that year two researches: (1) "Ueber die Darstellung eines kuenstlichen Futters"; (2) "Ueber das Verhalten des Eisens im thierischen Organismus." Having accepted a call to the Chair of Physiology in the Northwestern University Medical School, Dr. Hall came to Chicago and entered upon the duties of the position which he now occupies. He is eminently a college man, a man of great physical and mental strength, who is always ready to help students or his colleagues. Ch.: (a) Albert Winter, b. Zurich, Switzerland, Jan. 8, 1895. Herschel Foote was b. in Canton, Hartford Co., Ct., and was a pioneer settler in Cleveland, O., where he became a prosperous and esteemed merchant. He was thus engaged for nearly 40 years in what is now known as East Cleveland, where he was chosen by his fellow-citizens as Justice of the Peace, and also commissioned as Postmaster. He d. in Brooklyn, N. Y., in the autumn of 1870, in the 80th year of his age. His wife, by maiden name Pamela Bliss Townsend, was a dau. of Christopher Townsend, a native of New York State. Her mother dying at the time of her birth, she became the adopted dau. of Jonathan and Hannah Bliss, of Cleveland, they having no children of their own. This most estimable lady was spared to a long life of usefulness, dying at the residence of her son in Larchmont Manor, in 1899, at the advanced age of 89 years.

Elder Adoniram Foote was b. in Arlington, Vt., July 10, 1780. His youth was passed mostly in Washington Co., N. Y., where he m. Miss Nancy Doty, whose nephew, Duane Doty, a few years ago was Governor of Wisconsin. Soon afterwards he removed to Martinsburg, where the vigor of his life was expended, later he moved to Turin. His wife d. in June, 1815. In Jan., 1817, he m. Miss Emily Brainerd. A woman of intelligence, of great decision of character, and of positive piety and deep devotion, her worth to him was great and her influence upon him highly salutary, especially in leading him to embrace religion. He has also often referred with tearful emotion to the pious instructions of an aunt of his with whom he passed several of his early years, which he could never wholly forget, and which came to his mind with great freshness and force at the time he was converted. He survived his second wife a little less than eleven years. He was the father of a large family of 13 children, nine of whom lived to adult years. When he came into the county of Lewis that rich valley was but little known, and its resources were mostly undeveloped. He entered at once, and heartily, into every public enterprise calculated to promote the interests of the county. He received a military commission from Governor Tompkins, in 1812, and occupied several other offices of public trust from time to time. He was identified with those institutions whose motto speaks for the common brotherhood of mankind. He early connected himself with the anti-slavery movements of the country, as early as 1838, and in the Presidential contest of 1840 cast his vote for James G. Birney. He was independent in expression and faithful in prayer for the slave; yet he was not rash, not fanatical; never joined those who denounced the church and all other institutions for not moving so rapidly in this direction as he desired. He has often thanked God that he was permitted to live to hear freedom proclaimed throughout all the land. His Christian life in its outward manifestations was such as to bring honor to the name of Christ. He gave himself into God's guidance at the time of a general religious revival in 1830-31. Mr. Foote at once joined himself to the Presbyterian Church, at Martinsburg, and became one of the working men of the church; he was ordained an Elder in that church, Oct. 12, 1832. He was many times member of Presbytery and Synod and was a delegate to the General Assembly that met at Philadelphia in 1843, and in the home work he was always diligent and faithful. His place at the weekly prayer-meeting was seldom vacant. No day was allowed to pass without the observance of family prayer; and on this point he was very decided and strict, and several incidents are mentioned showing that he placed his service to God above his earthly cares and gains. He gave liberally for the support of the Gospel and for the great benevolent enterprises of the Christian church. Ch., all b. in Martinsburg, N. Y., except the first three.

1465. ELIAL TODD FOOTE, (537, 172, 47, 13, 5,) b. Gill, Mass., May 1, 1796. Two years after his parents removed to Sherburne, N. Y., where he spent his boyhood. He was educated in the common school and under the tuition of Rev. W. M. Adams, and at Oxford Academy. He studied medicine at Sherburne with Dr. Guthrie and attended medical lectures in New York in 1814 and 1815. He was licensed by the Chenango County Medical Society, and later received the degree of M. D. He settled in Jamestown, Chautauqua Co., N. Y., in 1815, and was its first settled physician. He soon had an extensive practice, but the hardships and exposure incidental to practice in a new country led to attacks of asthma, and after a few years he gave up active practice, and turned his attention to business of a public nature.

In 1819, at the age of 23, he was elected to the Legislature, representing the counties of Chautauqua, Cattaraugus and Niagara. The county of Niagara then included what is now Erie County and Buffalo. During this session (1819-20) he was on the Canal Committee, an important one, for the State was then building the Erie Canal. In 1826 he was again elected to the Legislature, and again in 1827. In 1822 he purchased from the Holland Land Company a reserved tract of land, on which is now built a large part of the city of Jamestown. This, with its valuable water power, was speedily improved, and the growth of the new village greatly promoted. Jamestown now (1907) has 30,000 inhabitants. He was active in public improvements, aiding them liberally by his means and influence. Four of the churches were built upon land donated by him for the purpose.

In 1831, the nearest bank being at Buffalo, 90 miles distant, he secured the charter for the Chautauqua County Bank, resigning his position as director of the United States branch at Buffalo to accept the presidency of the new bank, which he resigned in 1835. He was one of the fifteen who met in 1829 to organize the Chautauqua County Temperance Society, of which he was for several years the president. He was for many years the President of the Chautauqua County Bible Society, a life member of all the prominent religious and benevolent societies, in which he took a lively interest and to which he gave liberally. In 1818 he was appointed Associate Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, which office he held for five years until 1823, when he was appointed first judge of the County of Chautauqua, which office he continued to hold under reappointment by various governors every five years for 20 years. On his retirement, in 1843, the grand jury and the bar, without respect to party, and associate judges, joined unanimously in passing resolutions, bearing high testimony to the ability, fidelity, and impartiality with which he had for so long discharged the honorable duties of his office, and expressive of their confidence and esteem. About this time (1843) he became strongly enlisted in the anti-slavery cause, and supported the Liberty ticket in 1844. He removed to New Haven, Ct., in 1845, where he resumed the practice of medicine, and was in active practice there for some 20 years.

He was fond of historical research and collected a large amount of historical matter concerning the early history of Chautauqua, which formed the basis of the valuable history of that county, written by Mr. A. W. Young.

In 1827 he was elected a member of the Medical Society of the State of New York. He was also a member of the Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island State Medical Societies. In 1827 he was elected an honorary member of the New York Historical Society. He was a corresponding member of the Buffalo Historical Society and of the Albany Lyceum of Natural History and the New England Genealogical and Historical Society. He was one of the founders and for many years, until his death, a director of the New Haven Colony Historical Society.

Judge Foote m. at Jamestown, N. Y., Dec. 31, 1817, Anna Cheney, a native of Dover, Vt., and a dau. of Ebenezer Cheney, a Revolutionary soldier. His wife d. July 7, 1840, and he m. for his second wife, Amelia Stiles Leavitt, wid. of Rev. Charles Jenkins, of Greenfield, Mass., in 1841. She d. at New Haven in 1867. He was again m. in 1869, to Miss Emily Stockbridge, wid. of S. W. Allis.

At the close of this biography of Judge Foote, it is fitting here to make some suitable acknowledgment for the great services which he rendered in his researches, and by his published and unpublished reminiscences concerning Sherburne. In fact, it is but simple justice to say, that no other person has done more than he did to preserve the records of all that is of value and interest in the early history of this place. The writer has already appropriated much from the treasure trove of his historical collections, while much of value still remains. In a letter which has incidentally come to the hand of the writer, Judge Foote says: "I am disposed to have a sketch of West Hill Society and neighborhood published. In this way the efforts and settlement there of Major Dixon, our father, Judge Lynde, and others, will be preserved for future generations." How much, almost unconsciously, he was then contributing to that result, by inciting others to such labors! Judge Foote was a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity, and did not withdraw from that organization even under the great stress of the Anti-Masonic excitement of 1826-31, and was for several years Master of Mt. Moriah Lodge, at Jamestown. His early political associations were with the Loco Focos, or Democrats, but his later affiliations are well shown in an incident related by Judge Stephen Holden, of Sherburne, who was at the time a student at Yale College. He says, in a communication published in "The Sherburne News" of Sept. 7, 1889: "Early in 1856 I attended a meeting at New Haven, Ct., held to organize the Republican party for the presidential campaign. Dr. Elial T. Foote was one of the speakers, and added greatly to the enthusiasm of the meeting. The charge was then made that the then leaders of the Democrats were preaching a new doctrine on the question of slavery in the Territories. Dr. Foote, to vindicate his right to say what the original Democratic doctrine was, against the new lights in that party, among other things, said that he was a Democrat when they 'were mewling and puking in their nurses' arms!' " He was a man of noble presence, and, as Judge Holden says, "He was a fine looking man, of large frame and a rather broad face." He was nearly six feet in height, very dark hair, blue eyes, a fine face and head, and a frank, kindly way which made him very popular. In the spring of 1820, while yet in the Legislature, he was nominated unanimously by the district convention of the Western District of the State, as candidate for the State Senate. The nomination was a surprise to him, and he was strongly urged by influential members of the party to accept the same, but he felt constrained for personal and professional reasons to decline. Another candidate was presented and elected by a large majority.

Hon. Elial Todd Foote d. at New Haven, Ct., Nov. 17, 1877, in his 82nd year, and his remains were taken at his request to Jamestown for interment, among the friends to whom he was so strongly attached.

He was a man whose ability was recognized by his fellow citizens, who elected him to positions of trust and honor. In 1847 he was made a member of the Constitutional Convention, and from then until 1869 he held various public offices. He was repeatedly a member of the Wis. Legislature and of the Senate; a trustee of the State Hospital for the Insane; a director of the Beloit and Madison Railroad and of the Central Bank of Wis. He was also one of the factors in building the Evansville Seminary, and for many years was President of its board of trustees. He removed to La Cygne, Kas., in 1869, and remained there seven years, being the first Mayor of that city. Of him it was said at his death: "He had held many positions of trust, winning for himself the high esteem of all who knew him. He was a man of good ability, energetic in the discharge of duty, and honest—a man of iron will and great force of character. His intellect was of a high order, his judgment of men and things acute and correct. His religious life was characterized by intense interest in the Master's service, and in spite of the things which enter into man's life to create discord he kept faith to the end." He d. Aug. 27, 1863.

He was educated at the old Episcopal Academy at Cheshire, Ct. He had for a classmate Gideon Wells, afterwards Secretary of the Navy, and went immediately to sea under old Admiral Gregory. Entered the Navy in 1822 as acting midshipman, became passed midshipman in 1827, and Lieutenant in 1830. In 1833 he was Log Lieutenant of the Mediterranean Squadron and in 1838 circumnavigated the globe as First Lieutenant of the sloop of war "John Adams," participating in the attack on the pirates of Sumatra. During the cruise of the "Cumberland" he not only induced the crew to forego the use of spirits, but personally superintended their religious instruction, delivering an extemporary sermon every Sunday. In 1848, in command of the brig "Perry" off the African coast, engaged for two and one-half years in suppressing the slave trade. In command of the sloop "Portsmouth," supported by the "Sevant," he attacked the Chinese forts at Canton, massive granite structures, mounting 176 guns and garrisoned by 5,000 men, breaching the largest and strongest, and landing with a force of 230 sailors and marines, carried the work by storm.

At the beginning of the Civil War, 1861, Commander Foote was executive officer at Brooklyn Navy Yard. In July he was commissioned Captain, in Sept. he was appointed Captain, in Sept. was appointed Flag Officer of the flotilla fitting out in western waters. On Feb. 4, 1862, sailed from Cairo with a fleet of seven gunboats, of which four were iron-clad, to attack Fort Henry on the Tennessee River. He attacked the fort on the 6th without waiting for the arrival of the land forces under Gen. Grant, and in one hour compelled its surrender. On the 14th attacked Fort Donelson, on the Cumberland river. The action was sustained with great vigor on both sides for one and a quarter hours, when the fleet had to haul off because two gunboats had their steering apparatus shot away and were unmanageable. Capt. Foote was severely wounded in the ankle, his ship, the "St. Louis," was struck 61 times, but he proceeded down the Mississippi and commenced the siege of Island No. Ten, which he reduced. In July, 1862, he was appointed Rear Admiral, and in May, 1863, was ordered to the command of the South Atlantic Squadron. While preparing to leave New York City for Charleston he died. He was the author of "Abrua and the American Flag," 1854, "Letters on Japan," 1857.

Admiral Foote's sword is preserved as a sacred relic of the New Haven Historical Society. On the gold scabbard is the following inscription: "Presented by the citizens of Brooklyn to Flag Officer Andrew H. Foote as a testimonial of their high personal regard of their appreciation of his eminent professional character, distinguished public service and moral influence in a long course of active duty, and especially of his efficiency in suppressing the slave trade on the coast of Africa; his gallant conduct in the destruction of the barrier forts in China; his masterly skill and energy in the creation of a flotilla, and of the brilliant and intrepid bombardment therewith of the fortifications of the Tennessee, the Cumberland, and the Mississippi." He d. at the Astor House, N. Y. City, June 26, 1863.

1906. HON. JOHN JOHNSON FOOTE, (801, 247, 76, 25, 9, 3,) b. Hamilton, N. Y., Feb. 11, 1816; m. Sept. 24, 1839, Mary, dau. of Hon. Amos and Mary (Owen) Crocker, of Hamilton, N. Y. She was b. May 12, 1819, and d. Jan. 8, 1907. He was a prominent man in Central New York, and during the Civil War was very active in the raising and organization of regiments in that portion of the State. He was the first Central New Yorker to subscribe for Government Bonds, and in every way an ardent patriot. Was State Senator in 1858-59; Auditor of the New York City Post Office under Postmaster Thomas L. James; was Acting Postmaster during Mr. James' absence in Europe. Mr. Foote's system of rules and regulations for the reorganization and reformation of that office have since been adopted by the United States Post Office Department in the large post offices in the United States.

On Saturday night, Apr. 15, 1905, just before the midnight hour, Hon. John J. Foote, of Belvidere, Ill., gave heed to the final summons, and folding his weary arms in token of his submission, passed to the great beyond. Long had his death been expected, for the feebleness of old age was upon him, and the strenuousness of a well spent life had left its mark upon the forces which for years had been the admiration of men. Eighty-nine years had been his life allotment, while into it had been crowded more of the important things which are included in the making of the history of a nation than ordinarily falls to the lot of man. Since the war of 1812 little of importance has come to this continent to which he was not an eye witness, and in which he did not participate.

Born in Hamilton, N. Y., in Feb., 1816, he there laid the foundations of his life, to which men do not point with scorn, but direct attention to as worthy of emulation. During the stirring times of the nation, when the cry for a division of this government was heard, when men were carried outside the pale of reason by their passion and love for gain, his voice was heard in the gatherings of the wise, upholding the government, planning for the maintenance of her honor, and struggling for the outcome, which should leave the union undivided. The guns of Fort Sumpter aroused in him that spirit which had marked his ancestors for more than two centuries, and crystalized into action that power and energy which made him sought after in the councils of the nation.

The long and noble ancestry back of this man, fruitful in deeds accomplished, good impressions made upon the public life, and in the assisting of the settlement of questions which has greatly affected the history of our country, could not help but accurately foreshadow the life just closed. From 1633 the line is unbroken, and is closely identified with the stirring and important events of both England and America. This man's family and himself have become prominent figures in the national life of two continents. John J. Foote began life with the history of a good name., He could proudly point to men whose record was one of fidelity, the maintenance of great principles, and in the crises of nation's history, were willing to give their all for that nation's integrity and welfare.

His educational training was thorough, and though he did not pursue a full classical course, later in life he received his degree from Madison—now Colgate University. In his early career he took an active part in politics as a member of the Whig party, and by reason of his personal popularity and political sagacity was many times elected to various local offices, even when his party was largely in the minority. He counted as his friends the leaders of the Republican party, and was prominently identified with such men as Roseoe Conklin and Henry Clay.

In 1857 he was elected a member of the first Republican Legislature in New York, and served as a member of the Senate with such distinguished colleagues as William A. Wheeler and General Francis B. Spinola. He was the introducer and champion of the Personal Liberty Bill, one of the most famous measures proposed in New York prior to the war, and was designed to secure for the negroes additional rights and privileges.

When the war broke out, he gained additional prominence by doing all in his power to suppress the rebellion. When Fort Sumter was fired upon, he was called into a conference in New York City with Thurlow Weed, Governor Morgan, General Wool and others to consider the situation, and devise means for putting New York on a war footing. The meeting was held on Saturday night, and the Legislature was to adjourn on the following Monday. It was imperative for the proposed adjournment to be postponed, and Mr. Foote was delegated to go to Albany and see that the adjournment resolution was rescinded. The history of his work in that connection is interesting reading.

While he was seeking to induce the Republicans to carry out the pledge outlined by the party leaders in New York, Frances B. Spinola, with whom he had often crossed swords in politics, was an interested listener. Spinola finally blurted out, "Foote, you Republicans are a pack of cowards. I am a Democrat, but I propose to vote for the reconsideration of the adjournment resolution, and for the three million dollar appropriation as you proposed, and more than that, I will raise a regiment to go down South and lick the rebels." The four years of national turmoil furnishes many records of the toil and labor of Mr. Foote in behalf of the Union cause.

In 1865, his health having become seriously impaired, he sold out his business in Hamilton, and removed with his family to Belvidere, Ill., where he settled on a large farm, giving attention mainly to agricultural pursuits. Shortly after Mr. James was made postmaster in New York by President Grant, Mr. Foote was tendered the important office of auditor, a position which had been newly created. Mr. Foote accepted the position with the understanding that as soon as he had systematized the financial affairs of the post office he should be allowed to retire. The task proved much greater than he had expected. Mr. Foote devoted the next three years of his life to that work. His work there has passed into history, every act of which in his official capacity, he credit brought to himself and profit to the government which he represented. Under his administration, abuses were corrected, the rights of the government preserved, and systems adopted for use which for years afterward placed that office at the very head of the postal department in this country. More than once was he called upon to settle questions which involved the maintaining his integrity and preserving those principles which had so distinguished his past life. To his superiors he would answer, "Very well, I have sworn to enforce these rules, and I shall do so. It is in your power to change the rules, but it is not in your power to otherwise change my obligations," was the keynote of his admiration. Upon his return to Belvidere, Ill., he turned his attention again to private affairs, becoming interested in the various municipal, banking and other enterprises, and proved a skillful and able financier. Only in minor offices did he again enter politics, and then only because he was practically the unanimous choice of his fellow citizens.

Such are some of the side lights of the life which has so recently ended. Some of the guide posts, which point not so much to a mere existence, as to a living tangible reality, a power that was felt, and an influence which knows no dissolution. His was the type of citizenship which increases the strength of the nation and makes her people invincible in war and progressive in times of peace; a type of citizenship injected into municipal and social life, creating aspirations for the things which tell for good, and which will bring no discredit upon their promoters when they shall pass from the stage of action.

For some years Mr. Foote lived in retirement at his home on Lincoln Ave., Belvidere, Ill. His decline was gradual, but very marked for many months. Surrounded by his loved one and the descendants of those who were in his early life associated with his public career, the ministration of love and good will has been his heritage.

Mr. Foote m. in Hamilton, N. Y., Miss Mary, dau. of Hon. Amos Crocker, of Hamilton, to whom three ch. were b., one son (John C. Foote) and two daus. 1937. ARTHUR DE WINT FOOTE, (811, 248, 76, 25, 9, 3,) of Grass Valley, Cal., b. May 24, 1849; m. Feb. 9, 1876, Mary Anna, dau. of Nathaniel and Anna (Burling) Hallock, of Milton, N. Y. Mrs. Foote was b. at Milton-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., Nov. 19, 1847, where her father's family had lived on the same land since the grant from Queen Anne to Capt. Bond, from whom the Hallocks bought their tract when it was a forest wilderness. Her parents and grandparents on both sides were of English Quaker descent. She was educated at Poughkeepsie Female Collegiate Seminary. She early showed indications of a talent for drawing, and in her 17th year was sent to New York to the School of Design in Cooper Institute. She spent three winters in New York, at Cooper Institute, and one winter in the studio of Samuel Frost Johnson, studying color. She also received special instruction in design from Dr. William Rimmer, who taught design and anatomy at the Cooper Institute; and in drawing on wood from W. J. Linton, the English artist. Her life was exceedingly simple, sheltered and quiet until her marriage of Feb. 9, 1876, with Arthur De Wint Foote, a civil engineer, who at the time of her marriage was in charge of mining work in California. When her husband's business made it necessary for her to travel extensively, living or stopping at New Almaden and Santa Cruz, Cal., Leadville, Colo., and other places, amid scenes very unlike those of her early home, the experience thus gained she has utilized with great judgment and rare literary ability. After Bret Harte, no one else has given more vivid and effective delineation of the wilder and rougher phases of Western life. Besides "The Led Horse Claim," "John Bodewin's Testimony," "The Last Assembly Ball," "In Exile and Other Stories," "The Chosen Valley," "Coeur d' Alene," "The Cup of Trembling and Other Stories," she has published sundry short stories. Her too infrequent productions in the "Century" and other magazines are eagerly noted by discerning readers, who expect from her a higher combination of matter and treatment than they usually find elsewhere. She has illustrated her own tales, and various books and articles, always with point and force. She has also illustrated Longfellow's "Hanging of the Crane," "Skeleton in Armor," Whittier's "Mabel Martin," Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter." Mr. Foote entered Class of 1869 Sheffield Scientific School, but left in the second year because of trouble with his eyes. He is a member of Am. Ass. C. E., and has spent most of his life as superintendent of various mines; has contributed articles to mining periodicals, etc.

Held most of the town offices, was County Treasurer for three successive terms. One of the organizers and chief pillar of his church, like his father and grandfather, Trustee of Delaware Academy, Director of the Bank, Com. of Railroad, and for a few years in business in California, where his building was twice swept away, first by the great flood, then by fire. Always gentle and courteous, the village papers said of him at his death, "The last gentleman of the old school in our midst has passed away." He m., Sept. 11, 1844, Adelia Johnson, b. He held pastorates to churches in Maume, O., Bergen, N. Y., Mt. Clemens, Mich., and White Lake, Mich. He served as Chaplain of the Detroit House of Correction for four years, 1869-73. He was candidate for Vice-President of the Gerrit Smith Liberty Party, before its consolidation with the Free-Soil Party. He was a candidate for Governor of Michigan on the ticket of the American Party in 1882. In 1854 he moved to Detroit, Mich., and was the agent for the Refuge Home Society, whose object was to provide homes for escaped slaves in Canada, which position he occupied until the war made it unnecessary for the slaves to leave the country over which floated the Stars and Stripes in order to be a free man.
- He was a prominent actor in the rescue at Syracuse, N. Y., of an escaped slave, named Jerry, from the U. S. Marshal, which resulted in a broken arm for one of the deputies and the hurried departure of the others out of a second story window into the Erie Canal, and Jerry's safe arrival in Canada.
- After the war he became the agent for the Freedman's Aid Society, and in that capacity did much able work. From the very inception of the Prohibition Party, Mr. Foote was one of its active spirits, and his temperance work with tongue and pen was earnest and unceasing. James Scutt Dwight was a prominent merchant for many years on the corner of State and Main Streets, doing a general merchandise business, having six branch stores in the country, owning a line of boats on the river, and a distiller of good old New England rum and gin under the hill (Armory) close by. He had a large family, all of whom were prominent in business and professions one way and another. Homer Foote succeeded to this business, establishing in 1831 the hardware, iron and steel business at the old store known as the Dwight store, corner State and Main Streets. In 1845 he built the present block, corner State and Main Streets, and continued in business there for 55 years, dying a few years ago. The son, Francis Dwight Foote, is now the proprietor of the business, succeeding to it in 1893. Homer Foote d. Apr. 6, 1898, still being the senior partner of Homer Foote & Co., Hardware, Iron and Steel.

Homer Foote was prominent in all the enterprises started in Springfield and nearby towns, was president or director of several manufacturing corporations, also director of the Pyncheon Bank and Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co. He res. at 201 Maple St., at the old mansion and residence until his death. He was a large public-spirited citizen, the most prominent as a good man and citizen and of the largest public interest in the welfare of Springfield, putting his efforts and his money into every good or promising enterprise. He stood high in the estimation of everyone, a man with few enemies, strong, vigorous, honorable and just.

Dr. Foote was the originator and starter of the first Homeopathic Insane Asylum in this country, at Middletown, N. Y. It was all uphill work, as there was so much opposition. At last he got the Legislature to appropriate a certain amount, and he raised $600,000 by getting up a ball at the Grand Opera House in New York. After getting the building well under way there came up some political trouble, which made him feel obliged to resign, though he had always expected to be Superintending Physician. From then on till his death he was looked upon as an expert in insanity, and was frequently called in court to decide on the sanity or insanity of different people.

He was b. in Middlebury, Vt., Mar. 18, 1825, and moved to Port Henry, N. Y., in 1847. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1885 he was conspicuously identified with the iron business. In later years he was successful in other lines, being interested in the pulp and paper industry, and also for years president of the First National Bank of Wyoming, Iowa. His home for 57 years was in Port Henry, where he maintained a wise and generous interest in everything that affected the welfare of the community. He was one of the promoters and directors of the first railroad that ran into the Upper Champlain Valley on the New York side.
- Mr. Foote was one of the last of those pioneers of the iron industry in our country who helped in the laying of its foundation and aided its growth to the present enormous proportions. When he entered the business in 1850 the square stone stack, with its inefficient superimposed ovens, the blast driven through its open top by some nearby water power, producing from 6 to 10 tons of pig iron per day, was but a feeble prophecy of our 500-ton modern furnace. In 1852 he took charge of the Port Henry Furnace Company, a corporation of Boston gentlemen, with B. T. Reed as president, whose property consisted of two stone stack furnaces, Nos. 1 and 2, located on the shores of Lake Champlain at Port Henry. In Nov., 1854, he inaugurated the modern furnace by blowing in the "new No. 2" at that place, which was described by a historian of about that time as follows:

This furnace was constructed on a new plan, having an outer case or shell of boiler iron riveted together and standing upon plates, supported by cast iron columns. This is the first erection of the kind built in the country, and so far as I am aware in the world, although some have been constructed in Europe with a boiler iron shell supported by brick arches. The furnace is 46 feet high, 16 feet diameter at the top of the boshes, 8 feet high at the top of the furnace, and is blown through five tuyeres by a vertical steam engine having a steam cylinder 30 inches in diameter, 6 feet stroke, and a wind cylinder 84 inches diameter, 6 feet stroke. In 1860 another furnace was commenced, but not completed until 1862. This furnace is propelled by machinery similar to the other, but somewhat enlarged in its proportions and power. The furnace built by Powell & Lansing was taken down in 1855, and that erected by Gray was demolished in 1865. During the last five years these furnaces have produced 58,100 tons of pig iron.

The English method of working a high furnace with a closed top has been recently adopted, and each of the furnaces has been raised 20 feet, giving them an elevation of 66 feet. One of them, after an operation of three months under this charge, shows a very satisfactory result by an increased production of iron with a less consumption of coal per ton of iron made. The company obtains lime from a quarry upon its own property a short distance from the furnaces. Anthracite coal is exclusively used and is principally transported in return boats from Rondout.

The adoption of the "closed top" referred to in the foregoing extract marked the first introduction of that device in American iron making. At about the same time Mr. Foote introduced the "closed front" in this country, and applied the use of chemistry as an aid in burdening a furnace.

Mr. Foote's brother, Charles H., former vice-president of the Illinois Steel Company, Chicago, and Mr. Foote's sons, Fred H., also a former vice-president of the Illinois Steel Company; George C., superintendent of the Zenith Furnace Company, Duluth, and Wallace T., of Witherbee, Sherman & Co., Incorporated, Port Henry, N. Y., all received their training under him. He was a man of strong character, showing the marks of his Puritan ancestry in his high sense of justice, his inflexible will and energy, his grasp of affairs and his broad Christianity, while the high position which he held in his home community speaks eloquently of the regard of those who knew him best. 2500. JOHN HOWARD FOOTE, (1202, 404, 37, 10, 3,) b. Nov. 11, 1833, at Canton Center, Ct.; m. 1st, Jan. 11, 1860, Eliza Cook. She was b. June 30, 1836, in New York City, and d. Nov. 21, 1875; m. 2nd, Jan. 29, 1879, Bessie C. Perrine. She was b. in Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 27, 1856. He d. in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 17, 1896.

John Howard received a good academic education and afterward learned the art of clock making in one of the large factories in Bristol, Ct. He was gifted by nature with a mechanical turn of mind and soon mastered the intricacies of the trade. He afterward found employment in the extensive machine shops of Woodruff & Beach, at Hartford, Ct., as a journeyman machinist. He continued until the autumn of 1851, and in Jan., 1852, went to New York City, where he was employed for about two years as clerk in a hardware store. In Dec., 1853, he entered the employ of Rohe & Leavitt, importers of musical instruments. He was a born musician, and learned to play while a mere lad of seven years. This, added to his practical knowledge of mechanics, enabled him to readily adapt himself to his new occupation, and he soon became thoroughly familiar with the various instruments and a recognized expert in the trade. This firm, established in 1835, was not only the oldest in the trade, but recognized as the representative house in this line in America. Mr. Foote continued his connection with them until their retirement in 1863, when he bought out their interest and became their successor. He enlarged and developed the business greatly, and in 1868 established a branch house in Chicago, under the management of his brother. The business of the house extended to every part of the United States, and to every part of the globe, and included every variety of brass, stringed and other instruments, some of the best makers in Europe having made Mr. Foote their sole representative in America. In 1883 Mr. Foote was invited by the directors and managers of the United States National Museum, attached to the Smithsonian Institution, in Washington, D. C., to make a permanent exhibit of musical instruments, showing the progress in this line during the past century. He accepted the invitation and donated everything connected with the exhibit, thus making it perpetual, being the only one of its kind admitted to the Museum.

In 1890, Mr. Foote presented to Congress a "Plea for Uniform or Specified Duties on Behalf of the Manufacturers and Importers of Musical Instruments, with an Argument and a Series of Tables Illustrating the Proposed Rates of Duty, under the House Bill 9416, and the Senate Bill then under Discussion, as Compared with Existing and Former Rates of Duty." The Arguments presented by Mr. Foote were the result of many years of experience and an intimate knowledge of all the materials that entered into the manufacture of musical instruments. He was not successful in his efforts, as the Senate Committee on Finance had determined on a certain course of action and declined to make any change.

In early life Mr. Foote displayed considerable poetic and literary talent, and was a frequent contributor of poems to the "Journal of Commerce," the New York "Evening Post," and other papers. He wrote under the nom-de-plume of "Pearlfisher." Since 1872, Mr. Foote had spent his summers in Canton (formerly West Simsbury), where he erected a large and elegant house, with all the modern improvements, on the property which has been in the possession of the Foote family for 250 years. The place to which he gave the name of "Bel-Air" is one of the finest in that part of the country. In 1882 he assisted in forming the Farmington Valley Agricultural Corporation of Canton, Ct., of which, up to the time of his death in 1896, he was annually elected its president. Mr. Foote was a man of strong and decided opinions, amounting almost to obstinacy, characteristics peculiar to the Foote family, and exemplified in a marked degree in Admiral Foote of the United States Navy during the Civil War. He was nevertheless kind and pleasing in his manners, and a man of large-hearted liberality, a notable instance of which was shown in the repairing and remodeling of the old Church at Canton Centre, to which he was not only the principal contributor, but the virtual architect, designer and builder as well, devoting over three months of his time during the summer of 1874 to the work.

2502. DR. EDWARD BLISS FOOTE, (1203, 404, 119, 37, 10, 3,) b. Feb. 20, 1829; m. at Watertown, Mass., Sept. 6, 1853, Catherine Goodno, dau. of John and Anna (Champney) Bond.

Dr. Edward Bliss Foote spent the first 15 years of his life at the parental residence, seven miles east of the city of Cleveland, on Euclid Avenue, where he attended what was then known as Shaw Academy, and now East Cleveland High School. Leaving school, he entered the printing office of the Cleveland "Herald," then owned by J. A. Harris, where he learned the trade of printer, and was given employment in the job printing office of Smead & Coles, the latter (Edwin Coles) afterwards founding the Cleveland "Leader" and eventually uniting the Cleveland "Herald" with the same publication. From there he went to New Haven, Ct., and accepted a position as compositor on the New Haven "Journal." Remaining there for a brief period, he removed to New Britain, Ct., where he became the editor of the New Britain "Journal," which became the largest weekly in the State. Two years later we find him associated as co-editor with J. W. Heighway, editor and proprietor of the Brooklyn "Morning Journal," the first morning paper published on Long Island. It was while thus engaged that Dr.

Foote began the study of medicine. He entered the office of a specialist of New York City, and after he had completed his reading under him, he began to practice under the directions of his preceptor. He matriculated in the Penn Medical University in Philadelphia, from which he graduated in 1860. The same year he located at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and began the practice of his profession, but soon moved to New York City, where a wider field was open to him. His office in the city, for over 30 years, has been 120 Lexington Avenue, and his practice may be said to be world wide and lucrative. His patients may be found wherever the English and German languages are spoken. His name is not alone known here, where he has practised so successfully, but he has achieved a wide fame as the author of several books and monographs upon medicine, which have met a popular demand—the first one, “Medical Common Sense,” next, “Plain Home Talk,” and, finally, “Science in Story,” in five volumes. These, as well as numerous monographs upon medicine, hygiene, and the human temperaments, have found their way to nearly every part of the world. The late Stephen Massett, the extensive traveler, litterateur, and song writer, remarked that he had met with “Plain Home Talk” in every clime that he had visited, even so far away as South Africa. An address by Dr. Foote before the Medical Congress Auxiliary of the Columbian Exposition in 1893, on “The Causes of Disease, Insanity, and Death,” received much favorable comment from the Chicago press, and awakened lively discussion in the body of physicians before which it was delivered. He edited “Dr. Foote’s Health Monthly” for 20 years, and also contributed articles to different magazines and medical journals from time to time. In the year 1853 Dr. Foote was joined in matrimony to Miss Catherine G. Bond, dau. of John Bond, of Watertown, Mass., in which State she grew to womanhood. To Dr. and Mrs. Foote have been born three sons—E. B. Foote, Jr., Hubert T., and Alfred Herschel, the latter, a promising youth, dying of appendicitis at the age of twelve years. The Junior and Hubert have followed their father in medical practice. Dr. E. B. Foote, Jr., was a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York City, of the class of 1876, carrying off the Seguin prize for the best report of the lectures on nervous diseases. The second son, Dr. Hubert T., a resident of New Rochelle, in Westchester Co., was graduated at the Eclectic Medical College of the City of New York. Dr. Foote accumulated a sufficient competency to enable him to pass the sunset years of a very busy life in comfort and ease. He has been a resident of Larchmont Manor for nearly a quarter of a century, his residence being, in its location, one of the most commanding in the village, and so situated as to afford a magnificent view of Long Island Sound, and the various inlets between Larchmont and New Rochelle. He d. Oct. 5, 1906.

She is a member of the Sorosis Club and the National Society of New England Women. Dr. Edward Bond Foote continues the practice of medicine at his father’s old office, 120 Lexington Ave., New York.

After the death of Mr. Foote's parents in Albany, N. Y., he went to Bristol, Ct., where he lived with his guardian until he was 15 years of age, when he removed to New Haven, Ct., and resided here until his death. On coming to New Haven he secured a position as bookkeeper with the firm of Tyler & Frost, but his adeptness for his business was soon recognized and in 1868 he was made a member of the firm under the name of Tyler, Frost & Company.

He was prominent in local and State politics and served as a member of the Common Council, was also Town Clerk and Chairman of the Democratic Town Committee. It is said of Mr. Foote that he could look defeat in the face with as genial a smile as when victory rewarded the efforts of his party.

In secret society affairs, Mr. Foote confined his enthusiasm to the Masonic order, having been a member of Wooster Lodge No. 79, A. F. and A. M.; Franklin Chapter No. 2, R. A. M.; New Haven Commandery No. 2, Knights Templar, and was one of the first New Haven Masons to be raised to the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite.

Mr. Foote's happiest moments were when with his family. There the gentle sweetness of voice and manner had full play, there the devoted husband and tender affectionate father lived. He was esteemed in social and business life alike, and of a most genial nature, none knew Mr. Foote but to value his friendship. He was aggressive in business, positive in his convictions, generous in his treatment of others, he made firm friends and won the confidence of his associates. Despising hypocrisy, none more quick to pull the veil from falsehood or more quick to entrust confidences to those in whom he believed. He was one who allowed the cares of business to unduly burden him, and when, on June 16, 1887, he died suddenly, twenty good working years were cut off from what might have been expected for him.

“ Formed on the good old plan,
A true and brave and downright honest man,
Loathing pretense, he did with cheerful will,
What others talked of, while their hands were still.”

Apr. 20, 1848, Rosanna, dau. of Asaph and Verta Whittlesey, of Tallmadge, O., and shortly thereafter, with his bride, sailed as a missionary for Syria. He was assigned to a new station at Tripoli, and there he remained engaged in his chosen work a period of six years. At that time the dangerously impaired health of Mrs. Foote, coupled with the hope of medical aid to be secured in France or England, led them thither, only to find that nothing further could be done for her relief. An effort was made to reach America, but Mrs. Foote d. Dec. 24, 1854, just before entering New York harbor, and her body lies buried in the graveyard of her childhood's home at Tallmadge.

Though never able physically to return to the missionary field and labor, there is no doubt that his unremitting and zealous efforts produced a remarkable impress upon the entire community. The keynote of his teaching was ever the upbuilding of character. Religious belief, important however it might and should be, was to him the means only to the still more important end, right living, righteousness. Broadening and brightening in spirit and belief to the last day of his life, he inculcated and marvelously illustrated one of his favorite passages—"And the greatest of these is love." He graduated at Western Reserve College, 1846. Pastor, Middlebury, O., 1846-7. Ordained, Hudson, O., Apr. 6, 1848. Missionary, A. B. C. F. M., Triple Lyres., 1848-54. Released, 1856. He d. 4200. xiv. HERMIE ELIZABETH, b. Feb. 21, 1869; d. in the hospital at Pittsburg, Jan. 30, 1907, after an illness of two years. She was b. and spent her early years on the old home farm, one and a half miles north of Fredericktown. The bright, summer days of her childhood were spent in roaming over fields and through the woodlands and enjoying the beauties of nature. With persistent energy and ambition her artistic ability developed into a profitable business, which was established with her brother in 1892. She continued in that business for eight years. For the past seven years she has been engaged with her brother in the J. B. Foote Foundry Co. During the last two years her failing health has made it impossible to continue in active business. Her unusual ability made her rank among the first of the business people of the town. She had a deep and earnest motive back of her work, which was the elevation and prosperity of the working class.

2750. JOHN BARTLIT FOOTE, D. D., (1341, 448, 145, 41, 11, 3,) b. July 1, 1826; m. 1st, May 19, 1851, Mary Stilphen, of Bartlett, N. H. She was b. Sept. 12, 1826. She d. Aug. 24, 1859, in Syracuse, N. Y. Mr. Foote was Pastor there of the M. E. Church; m. 2nd, Nov. 8, 1860, Louisa, dau. of Rev. Seth and Elizabeth (Crossett) Young, of Dewitt, N. Y.

Rev. John Bartlit Foote, D. D., was b. in Martinsburg, N. Y., July 1, 1826. He was the youngest son of Adoniram Foote, who was of the seventh generation from Nathaniel Foote the Settler. His mother was Emily Brainard, a descendant of Daniel Brainard, who was b. in England and came to this country, settling in Haddam, Ct., about 1662. The early years of Mr. Foote's boyhood were spent in the home of his parents, attending school at the village academy and helping in such work as a boy can do on the farm or in the shop; his father conducting a shoe shop and tannery, as also a farm.

He was converted at the age of thirteen in Revival Services conducted by Rev. Isaac Puffer in the Methodist Stone Church in Martinsburg in Mar., 1839, and later became a student in Lowville Academy, where under able instructors he was prepared to enter an Advanced Class at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Ct. This it was his purpose to do, but, attending a session of Conference, an address of Bishop Janes on "Christian Perfection" and a sermon by Dr. Scott on "The very God of Peace Sanctify you wholly," so impressed him that in the class meeting on the evening of the day of his return he received the experience of perfect love and at once decided to take a course in the School of Theology, which had just been opened at Concord, N. H., by Dr. John Dempster. This he did, and was graduated from that school in Nov., 1850, being the first student to receive a diploma from the Concord Biblical Institute, now the Boston School of Theology. This diploma was given by request some ten years ago to the Boston Institution, where it is preserved. During the years of his student life he taught at intervals, of a term each, in various places in the vicinity of his home, and while at Concord, N. H., he taught at East Concord and at Osterville, Mass. After serving a pastorate of six months at Ballard Vale, Mass., Mr. Foote was m. in the spring of 1851 to Miss Mary Stilphen, of Lower Bartlett, N. H., and, returning to New York State, he joined the Black River Conference, which was in session in Oswego the first week in July of that year. After serving some churches in the northern part of the State, Belleville, Sacketts Harbor, Watertown and Ogdensburg, he was appointed to the First M. E. Church in Syracuse. While pastor there his wife d. The following year he was appointed to the church at Potsdam, and in Nov., 1860, he was m. to Louisa Young, of Dewitt, N. Y., the youngest dau. of Rev. Seth Young, who was one of the early circuit preachers of central New York, and who d. in 1835, when his dau. was but eight years old.

After a pastorate of two years each in the churches of Rome and Oswego, Mr. Foote was appointed in the spring of 1865 Presiding Elder of the Rome District. During the four years in this relation, he, in union with one of the pastors on the district, secured a forest at Trenton Falls, N. Y., for a permanent camp ground for the District. This beautiful and romantic spot has become a favorite summer resort for families in that section, while still serving the original purpose of a camp meeting ground for one or two weeks each summer.

During the year 1866, called the Centenary of American Methodism, an unusual interest was awakened on the subject of Education, and the Conference of that year appointed a Commission, of which Mr. Foote was chairman, to investigate the feasibility of removing the Genesee College at Lima to a more central location as a nucleus for the building up of a great University.

A good deal of money was raised for this object throughout the Conference, the larger part of which was from the Rome district.

In 1869 he was appointed Presiding Elder of the Syracuse district, and owing to a division of Conference boundaries about this time, he came to be a member of the Central New York instead of the Black River Conference.

In Feb., 1870, a Methodist State Convention, of which he was Secretary, was held in Syracuse, which culminated in the founding of Syracuse University and the removal of Genesee College.

In 1871 Mr. Foote became a member of the National Holiness Association, and in that connection assisted in conducting camp meetings in twenty-four States, from Maine to Nebraska.

The number of camp meetings of which he has had charge, or has assisted in conducting, in the course of his ministerial work was 140.

After the close of his work as Presiding Elder, he served several charges as pastor until 1894, when, after a protracted illness, he was retired from active work in Conference relations, though he has since held the position of Chaplain of the Onondaga Penitentiary for ten years.

At the celebration of "Old Home Week" in the city of Oswego during the first week of July, 1906, Mr. Foote was invited to conduct the lovefeast on Sunday morning, July 1. By a singular coincidence it was his 80th birthday and the 55th anniversary of the week in which he joined the Conference in that same church.

he was one year old his family moved to Royalton, Niagara Co., N. Y. His early life was spent on the farm. He obtained his education at Lima Seminary, N. Y., and Alleghany College, Meadville, Pa. He was m. Oct. 27, 1857, to Emily A. Whitney, of Pike, Wyoming Co., N. Y. In 1860 he joined the Genesee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The first appointment was Middleport, N. Y. From his second appointment, Cambria, he was mustered in as Lieutenant (1862) of Co. H, 151st Regt. N. Y. State Volunteers. He was afterwards appointed Chaplain of the 151st Regt. N. Y. S. V., which office he held until the close of the Civil War. After the war, he resumed his work as minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church. His appointments were, successively, Collins, Evans, Pekin, Lyndonville, Buffalo, Rochester. In the last-named place he held pastorates at three different churches, and was Presiding Elder of the Rochester District for six years. His last charge was Penfield, N. Y. He retired in 1895, and resides at Rochester, N. Y.

schoolhouse in New Milford, and was reared by an elder brother, proprietor of a general store, in which Silas Foote remained until his nineteenth year. His brother then sold his business in Prompton, Pa., and, accompanied by his wife and Silas, went to San Antonio, Texas, where, in 1853, he embarked in the mercantile business. His death there occurred in May, 1854, and Silas B. Foote afterward returned to Pa. with his brother's widow. For some time he engaged in the sale of patent rights with the former partner of his brother, and they traveled extensively in this connection throughout the country.

In 1857, Mr. Foote arrived in Red Wing, Minn., and having a stock of goods shipped to him at that point, he embarked in general merchandise on his own account. Later he traded his business for lots and other real estate, and subsequently exchanged his property interests for a stock of shoes and opened a shoe store in Red Wing under the firm style of Foote & Sweeney. A year later George R. Sterling purchased Mr. Sweeney's interest, and the firm of Foote & Sterling was thereby organized. This firm was succeeded by Foote, Johnson & Company, and a year later T. A. Schulze, Gustave Schurmeier and Constantine Henry were admitted to a partnership, while in 1881 the firm became Foote, Schulze & Company, carrying on business in St. Paul. Mr. Foote has been a manufacturer of and wholesale dealer in shoes in St. Paul for 25 years. The company occupies immense buildings, which are constantly being enlarged, and they employ between six and seven hundred operatives in the manufacture of boots and shoes.

On July 6, 1858, Mr. Foote was m. to Miss Lydia Lorana Park, a dau. of Dr. Ezra Park, of Montrose, Pa. There are four sons and a dau. of this marriage. Ezra P., a fine musician, who is leader of a large orchestra in Portland, Oregon; Fred W., a lawyer, of Red Wing, Minn.; Edwin H., who is engaged in business in Red Wing as a member of the firm of S. B. Foote & Company, dealers in shoes; Bessie Park, at home; and Robert M., a student at Faribault.

For many years Mr. Foote has been a useful and earnest worker in Christ's Episcopal Church of Red Wing, in which he has long served as vestryman, while at the present writing he is now churchwarden. He erected a very beautiful and costly chapel as a memorial to his deceased wife. In community affairs he has ever been deeply and helpfully interested. In 1882-3 he was Mayor of Red Wing, acceding to the request of the temperance element to become chief executive. He enforced the law in regard to temperance so strictly that he aroused the opposition of the saloon element and those who do not entertain strong temperance principles, and in consequence was retired from the office at the end of his term. He has, however, never ceased his activity in behalf of Red Wing, where he maintains his residence, and of St. Paul, to which city he goes daily for the supervision of his business. He is Thirty-second Degree Mason, belonging to the Consistory of the Scottish Rite and the Chapter and Commandery of the York Rite and also to the Mystic Shrine. He likewise belongs to the St. Paul Jobbers' Union and to various commercial bodies. Although 73 years of age he is still an active business man, possessing the vigor and energy of many a much younger man, while in spirit and interests he seems yet in his prime. Constantly enlarging the scope of his activities through the close application and earnest effort which are the indispensable concomitants to success, he stands to-day as one of the foremost manufacturers and merchants of St. Paul.

At the age of 16 years he started out to make his own fortune, at first studying for a doctor, at Lockport, N. Y., but soon giving that up for music, being endorsed with a marvelous voice and great personal magnetism; a fine stage presence.

He studied in Boston, and soon after took his place as a concert and church singer, besides leading choruses of large size. In 1858 he went to Michigan to take the chair of Music and Elocution in the State Normal School, till 1866. Wishing a wider field he went to Chicago, and was engaged to lead the singing in the Presbyterian Churches, besides teaching music and elocution in the Chicago University. He engaged to make a tour of California and England with Dwight L. Moody, but the Chicago fire broke up that plan, and soon after he went to Louisville, Ky. In 1874, he took charge of the music in Topeka and Lawrence (Kan.) Schools. He remained there till 1878, when he accepted the position of musical director of the Ypsilanti Public Schools, where his home was. He resigned at the age of 70 years, amid the regrets of all. 3285. BRIG.-GENERAL MORRIS COOPER FOOTE, (1791, 719, 231, 72, 20, 5,) b. Sept. 16, 1843; m. Apr. 29, 1891, Annie Elizabeth Murphy. His great-grandfather was William Cooper, the founder of Cooperstown, N. Y., and his maternal great-grandfather was Jacob Morris, who served as an officer in the Revolutionary War, whose father was Lewis Morris, of Morrisania, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. His father died during the Mexican War in 1846 and his mother moved to Cooperstown, with her children, where he attended school for a time, later going to Plattsburg, N. Y., and to a Commercial College in Syracuse, N. Y.

In September, 1861, he enlisted as a private in the 44th New York Volunteer Infantry and served until June, 1862, when he was appointed Second Lieutenant of the 92nd New York Volunteer Infantry, and First Lieutenant 121st New York Volunteers, Mar., 1865. Appointed Second Lieutenant, 9th U. S. Infantry, May, 1866, in which regiment he served for 36 years through all the grades of First Lieutenant, Captain, Major and Lieutenant-Colonel. Apr. 15, 1902, he was appointed Colonel of the 28th U. S. Infantry, in which regiment he served until Feb. 18, 1903, when he was appointed Brigadier-General, at which grade he was retired, at his own request, after a service of over 40 years.

General Foote was a typical specimen of the American soldier. He devoted his whole life to the service of his country. He served throughout the entire Civil War, and was present at the surrender of Lee at Appomattox. He was taken prisoner Apr. 20, 1864, at Plymouth, N. C., while serving as aide on the staff of Brigadier-General H. W. Wessells, at the time of the capture of that place by overwhelming odds. He was a prisoner at Libby, Macon, Charleston and Columbia, escaping from the latter place after thrilling adventures before arriving at the mouth of the Santee River and taking refuge on board the U. S. gunboat "Nipsic."

In Dec., 1864, he was among the 600 officers, prisoners of war, placed under fire, in an effort to prevent the batteries on Morris Island from shelling the city of Charleston. He was the only officer hit, receiving a slight flesh wound from a piece of shell. He was brevetted captain of volunteers in 1865 for gallant and meritorious services before Petersburg and in the battle of Little Sailor's Creek, Va. He commanded one of the two companies of the 9th U. S. Infantry that received the Territory of Alaska from Russia in 1867, and was present when the Russian flag was hauled down at Sitka.

He was adjutant of the Black Hills Expedition, under Col. Richard I. Dodge, in 1875, and was in charge at the Brule Sioux Indian Agency in 1876. He was in the field against hostile Sioux in 1877, and in the Geronimo Campaign in 1886.

When the war with Spain broke out, he went to Cuba with his regiment, the 9th U. S. Infantry, and commanded a battalion at San Juan, and was at the surrender of the Spanish Army in the city of Santiago in July, 1898.

In June, 1900, he went to the Philippines, and subsequently to China with his regiment. He was present at the battle of Tien-Tsin, and marched with the Allied Armies to the relief of the Legations at Peking, taking part in all the engagements en route. In Oct., 1900, he was ordered to return to Tien-Tsin in command of the United States forces, and represented the United States in the "Conseil" or provisional government of that city.

He returned with his regiment to the Philippines, May, 1901, and served at Basey, Samar, for some months. Later, as Colonel of the 28th U. S. Infantry, he served in Cavite Province, near Manila, and also on the Island of Mindanao.

General Foote returned from the Philippines in Apr., 1903, and after spending a year in California he went to Europe to enjoy a few years' travel and well-earned rest. He d. at Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 6, 1905. His remains were brought back to the United States and buried in the U. S. National Cemetery at Arlington, Va., near Washington, D. C.

He prepared for college at Cortland Acad., Homer, N. Y., and graduated from the University of Michigan in 1867 with the degree of M. D. He was deeply interested in natural history, especially in botany and mineralogy. On graduating, he had won so high a rank in his scientific studies that he was chosen out of a large class as assistant in the University laboratory. From this position he was called, in a year, to the Professorship of Chemistry in the Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa. Here he remained as a successful instructor for five years, with the exception of one year spent in Europe, under leave of absence, when he studied chemistry under the celebrated Hoffman in Berlin. In 1875 he removed to Philadelphia, Pa. Here he turned his attention to mineralogy as a business in connection with that of dealing in scientific books. In the development and prosecution of this work his services to science were many and important. His explorations after minerals extended to all parts of America and to many foreign countries. He was one of the most widely known representatives of the science of mineralogy in this country. Contributions from his pen were published in the leading scientific journals. John Garvin Foote was a graduate of Belvidere High School, and also attended Colgate University (his father's "Alma Mater"). He left college in the Junior Collegiate year. After leaving college he completed a course in banking, and was for a while with Merchants Loan and Trust Company Bank, Chicago, Ill. On account of ill health he left the bank, and later went to Phoenix, Ariz. He reached his home in Belvidere, Ill., from Phoenix, Ariz., on the evening of May 16, 1903, and d. at his home about one o'clock in the morning of May 17. He was a young man of sterling qualities, as George R. Pierce, D. D., said of him: "Never was memory fairer, purer, sweeter, more precious, than of this son, brother, husband, friend." He was a member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants and of the Society of Sons of the Revolution.

Amid beautiful flowers and in the sunshine of a perfect summer day, the funeral services for the late John G. Foote were held at his parents' home. A large company of friends filled the house, while many others stood upon the lawn. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Brittin. Rev. Geo. R. Pierce, D. D., read the Scripture and spoke. Dr. Pierce had been Mr. Foote's pastor for seven years.

He spoke as follows: Friends and neighbors, it is borne in upon me, that we are each and all gathered in this home today, asking ourselves a question, as old as grief; the question that underlies all our little life,—the question, Why? No voice from the blue immensity about us has ever answered that heart-breaking cry, going up since men were; so we, like the men of old, go on seeking reasons, when Death comes for the young, the fair, the good. They, those pagan men of old, said reverently in their tears, "The Gods loved him. It was their love that took him from the stress of this world to the violet carpeted peace of their immortal glory." We in our bewilderment, forgetting that he who is prepared to die is most well equipped to live, say, "He was prepared," and we repeat the cry of Job: "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord!" And we strain our eyes, trying to read between the lines of the transcendent vision, which tells us, of "A City, not made with hands, whose gates of pearl are never closed day or night, whose light is the Lord, where His servants serve Him, and see His face, where is neither pain, nor tears, nor parting, any more."

It has been my privilege to know the son of this home in a peculiar and intimate way. When I came to Belvidere he was a slender stripling scarce 17. I went in and out of this house for nearly four months before I could be settled in the parsonage. I not only knew his parents, and his grandparents, but I remembered his great grandfather as a notable man in bowery Hamilton, New York, when I, a boy, went there to enter college. That great grandfather, by the way, stood for all things that make for righteousness. How could a man be other than noble, springing from such a stock? I was the boy's pastor. More, I was the next door neighbor. A pastor may not know his flock, but spite of brick, and wood, and walling conventions, we come to know our neighbors. We know if they be good, if they be true, and of what stuff their pretensions are made, so across this stretch of grass between this home and the place I called home, I watched this young son and brother, and friend, come and go,—come and go for seven years or more and saw as the days ran into years the genial, generous, gentle boy become a genial, generous gentleman. To a fine eye it was enough to see him with his mother and sisters. To a fine ear it was enough to hear him addressing the dear home folk, at this house, or at that other home down the street where dwell the grandparents and the aunts, who was to him as a second mother.

And beyond this home group were hosts of friends, and one especially dear with whom the intimacy was close and brotherly, for this was a symmetrical character, round, full, harmonious, perfect so far as we know it in every human tie. Refined to distinction, he was of course reserved, but it was easy to guess the springs of his actions, and the character of his feelings by his conduct. So as I stand here, words seem paltry before the overwhelming bereavement of this home, bereavement so deep I venture that every parent in Belvidere sympathizes with these parents and these grandparents, that every wife in Belvidere feels for this girl wife, for whom long years and many changes will never efface the memory of this moment, and of the two years that have preceded it. When I think of her, and her great love and loss, I am reminded of Shelley's immortal lament, in which he says:

"Out of the day and night,
A Joy has taken flight.
Fresh Spring, and Summer and Winter hour
Move my faint heart with grief,—but with delight,—
No more,—O—never more!"

When I think of his sisters I am reminded of Eugenie de Guerin's wail above the bier of her brother Maurice, "What name so dear as brother!" And always I wonder, what this life might have become had it been as we say "finished" here. That it would have been a joy, a stay, a comfort, it is easy to conjecture. So, friends, is it not easy to believe that in the larger economy of God, this life and power, with others like it, have uses somewhere,—beautiful, necessary, transcendent, beyond our comprehending.

Never was memory fairer, purer, sweeter, more precious, than of this son, brother, husband, friend,—who "Gladly did live, And gladly did die, And laid him down with a will,"—like a good soldier. Up to the last the fine high courage lasted. He reached his father's house we cannot imagine at what cost of weakness, weariness, and will. He looked once more into the dear eyes, then went quietly on to the All Father, at whose City you may be sure he was met and is welcomed, even as he was met and is welcomed here at yonder gate.

Be glad, dear friends, that you, that we, had him so long. Be comforted in that gladness and, believe that in him, the vision is fulfilled; servant of God here, he shall serve Him forever, and he, the dear lad we knew, and love, and miss so sorely, shall see the Master's Face.

Mr. Foote spent his early boyhood days in New Haven, Ct., where he was educated. He was exceedingly public-spirited and was foremost in any movement or enterprise for the public good. He was one of the organizers of a volunteer fire company in Westville, Ct., a suburb of New Haven, and his unceasing efforts in any enterprise in which he took part were not spared until the coveted end had been gained. During his business career his name was a guarantee of sound business principles, justice and integrity, as was his father's before him, in whatever connection it was used.

Mr. Foote resided in New Haven until Sept. 5, 1898, when he started for the West. He went to Albert Lea, Minn., where he took charge of the city lighting plant, but finding the opportunities for a young man more extensive in a mercantile way, he purchased a laundry plant in that city, which he conducted successfully. Wishing to extend his field, he sold the plant in Albert Lea in Oct., 1903, and purchased a laundry plant in Fairmont, Minn., which he conducted until his death, Nov. 23, 1904. Mr. Foote d. a comparatively young man, and was buried in New Haven, Ct. He was prominent in fraternal affairs, having been a member of the Knights of Pythias, Elks, Woodmen of the World, and several other organizations.

715. GOV. SAMUEL AUGUSTUS FOOTE, (223, 61, 18, 5,) b. Nov. 8, 1780, Cheshire, Ct. (For family record see page 188. Portrait opposite page 185.) Though of a delicate constitution in childhood and youth, he prepared for and graduated at Yale College before he was 17 years of age. He subsequently pursued the study of law with the late Judge Reeve, at Litchfield, until declining health compelled him to relinquish the cherished purpose of entering the legal profession. He commenced business at New Haven, in the West India trade, in 1803. In this business he continued, occasionally taking a voyage, for the double purpose of benefiting his health and his pecuniary affairs, until about the year 1813, when the war and the declining health of his father induced him to retire to Cheshire, where he resided upon the estate where he was born until the period of his own death, which occurred Sept. 16, 1846.

From the early part of the year 1817 to the year 1835, he was in public life. During this time he was repeatedly a member and Speaker of the House of Representatives of Connecticut, elected to the Senate of that State, a member of the House of Representatives of the United States, Governor of the State, and subsequently, in 1844, one of her Presidential Electors. When a member of the Senate of the United States, he introduced the resolution which still bears his name, and on which Webster and Hayne made the splendid efforts which signalized themselves and the American Senate. While Governor of the State, Mr. Foote received the degree of LL.D. from the College where he graduated, and in his last protracted illness he enjoyed the like filial attention which, under similar circumstances, he had bestowed upon his own father.

The Rev. Edward Bull, formerly a tutor in Yale College, who had resided at Cheshire, and been familiar with Governor Foote for several years previous to his decease, thus speaks of his public and private character:

Governor Foote was for a long period employed almost constantly in the service of the public. There is scarcely any office in the gift of his fellow citizens which they did not confer on him. He was successively a member of the House of Representatives, Speaker, and Governor of the State, and occupied seats in both Houses of Congress. In all the important business of his native town, he was sure to be employed whenever his services could be obtained, and they were never declined to save his own time or labor, when his exertions could advance the interest of the public or individuals.

That which specially strikes us as characteristic and distinguishing in Gov. Foote as a public man, is his integrity, industry, decision and perseverance. These qualities are the foundation of his success, and of the confidence which he secured in the community. He was eminently, in all his views and aims, a practical statesman. What he decided to be right and expedient he ever firmly adhered to. What he aimed to accomplish he labored at as a working man, systematically and perseveringly. His measures might not always be approved, but the honest convictions by which he held, and the fearless fidelity and honest zeal with which he pursued them, was never questioned by any one who knew him.

He was, at least a portion of his life, a warm party man, but no party drill could ever bring him to give his vote for a measure which he had denounced as unwise and inexpedient. No man ever more utterly repudiated the doctrine that offices are the mere spoils which are acquired by the successful competitor. The principle to which he ever adhered is that those who receive the honors and emoluments of office are debtors to their constituents to the full amount of a faithful devotion of their time and talents to their official duties. To this principle he conscientiously conformed his own conduct, both in the general business of legislation and in prosecuting and securing the rights of such as entrusted him with their claims. To this last remark, I doubt not, some who read this will bear testimony by the recollection of such services, gratuitously rendered to themselves or their friends.

Governor Foote was an exemplary and consistent member of the Congregational Church and Society of Cheshire, of which (embracing a period of nearly a century), his father and grandfather were successively pastors. Here, as well as in all his social relations, his influence was extensive and exerted to promote the ends of the Gospel,—truth, order, harmony, Christian morality and true Godliness.

In his family everything was conducted by a uniform system of order, and a frank and generous hospitality maintained towards his friends. As a father, though he gave no countenance to that laxness of parental restraint which is so common at this day, yet no one ever made home more pleasant and dearer to his children, nor received from them more unequivocal tokens of their love and reverence.

201. HENRY WILDER FOOTE, (162, 111, 57, 38, 25, 13, 7, 1,) b. Salem, Mass., June 2, 1838. He was educated at Fiske Latin School, and at Harvard, from which he graduated in 1858. Three years later he graduated from Harvard Divinity School. After declining calls to two important pulpits he was installed as minister of King's Chapel, Boston, Dec. 22, 1861, where he remained until his death, May 29, 1889. As pastor of this historic church he necessarily took a conspicuous position in the community, though his broad culture, scholarly attainments, and spirit of self-forgetting service would have brought him distinction in any case. His chief literary work was the compilation of the "Annals of King's Chapel," a work of great importance in the New England history. Many of his sermons were published in pamphlet form, and a volume of them was collected after his death under the title, "Thy Kingdom Come." The inscription upon his monument at King's Chapel describes him as "a man of thorough learning, broad charity, and clear unswerving faith; gentle, pure, strong; wise in judgment, tender in sympathy, rich in holy thought and work; revering justice he loved mercy and walked humbly with his God. His ever present sense of duty inspired a life whose joy was to strengthen and to cheer. With victorious faith and abiding peace he lived among us blessing and blessed." He m. #### A NEW YORK BRANCH.

JOHN FOOTE was b. in England in 1757, but at the age of 19 he, with his one sister and widowed mother, were living in Holland. His mother owned a grist mill and John was the miller. At this time John was seized by a British boat crew, and though he protested that he was not a native of that province, they would not release him or allow him to say good-bye to his mother, but hurried him to the vessel. He was brought over to America and served in the British Army until the surrender of Burgoyne, when he managed to join the American Army, in which he served until peace was declared. The rolls at Washington have him registered in Col. Robt, Van Rensselaer's Regiment. When the war was finished, John Foote married and settled in New York City, where he engaged in the trucking business until 1800, when, selling out his business and most of his household effects, he moved by means of two teams and covered wagons, his family, now consisting of himself, wife, and eight children, to Cayuga Co. in Central New York, settling in "Indian Fields," now is town of Genoa. Here they became acquainted with the family of Christopher Jansen, who had recently moved there from Easton, Penna.—but previously from Holland. Three of John Foote's sons eventually married three of the Jansen girls. The Jansen name was evidently of Danish origin. In 1812, John Foote sold his real estate in Genoa and moved to Odessa, Schuyler Co., near Watkins' Glen, where he owned 300 acres of land, which he bought in 1800, paying for it £300. Here he d. in 1817. His widow survived him nearly 20 years, and most of the foregoing facts were given by Mrs. Foote to her grandson, Jacob Jansen Foote. John Foote was of medium height, strongly built, and had blue eyes. The majority of his descendants have dark eyes. The Jansens had very dark brown, almost black, eyes. John Foote was m. to Catherine Miller, Mohawk Valley, N. Y.

5. RICHARD FOOTE, the younger, b. Jan. 31, 1666, came to Virginia towards the end of the seventeenth century and settled in Stafford County, where he d. Mar. 21, 1729 (St. Paul's Church Register). Owing to the destruction of the records of that county, but little can be learned concerning him. His will was dated Apr. 15, 1724, and though it was destroyed, is cited in a deed from Thomas Booth, Jr., of Gloucester, and Richard Foote, of Stafford, Prince William County, Sept. 8, 1734, and in another dated Nov., 1762, and recorded in Fauquier County, from Richard Foote, of Stafford.

18. i. SARAH, b. Jan. 29, 1732; m. Nov. 26, 1750, Rev. William, son of Rev. David Stuart. The Rev. David Stuart came to this country from Scotland in 1716 or 1717, after the defeat at Culloden. He was a minister and settled here at St. Paul's Church. He was its Rector and continued so until his death in 1749, when he was succeeded by his son, William Stuart, who was probably his father's assistant for some time before his death. The Rev. Wm. Stuart was educated at William and Mary, and was sent by his father to London in 1745, where he was ordained by Edmond, Lord Bishop of London, and preached in St. Paul's Church until age and infirmity compelled him to resign. Richard Foote, at his death, gave "Cedar Grove," in King George Co., to his daughter Sarah, and the Stuarts have always owned and occupied the property. Rev. Wm. Stuart d. 1799, ae. 75 years. 50. GOV. HENRY S. FOOTE, (31, 22, 15, 5,) b. Fauquier Co., Va., Feb. 28, 1804; m. Elizabeth Winters, of Nashville, Tenn. He was educated at Georgetown College, District of Columbia, and Washington College, now Washington and Lee University, during 1817-19, and after studying law at Warrentown, Va., was admitted to the bar in 1823. He emigrated the same year to Tusculumbia, Ala., where he edited a Democratic newspaper, and in 1827 removed to Jackson, Miss., and formed a law partnership with Andrew Hutchinson. In Jan., 1847, he was elected to the U. S. Senate for the term beginning Mar. 4, and was Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations; was an earnest advocate of the compromise of 1850. He resigned from the Senate to assume the duties of Governor of Miss., to which office he had been elected in 1851, over Jefferson Davis, and served from Jan., 1852, until Jan., 1854. Upon the expiration of his term, Governor Foote removed to California, but returned to Miss. in 1858 and resumed the practice of law in Vicksburg in 1860, and was strongly in favor of the preservation of the Union. He was bitterly opposed to secession, and quit Mississippi territory when secession was about to become a reality, removing to Tennessee. He, however, gave his adhesion to the Confederate Government, became a member of the Confederate House of Representatives, and served from Feb., 1862, until Jan., 1865, when he resigned and went abroad. In the Confederate Congress he was noted particularly for his opposition to Jefferson Davis and to the continuation of the War, and he favored a suspension of hostilities on the terms offered by Lincoln in 1863 and 1864. After the war he became identified with the administration of Grant, and was appointed by him Superintendent of the U. S. Mint, at New Orleans, which post he held until his death. He was an author of note, his publications including "Texas and the Texans" (Philadelphia, 1841, 2 vols.), "The War of the Rebellion" or "Scylla and Charybdis" (New York, 1866), "The Bench and Bar of the South and Southwest" (1876), "Personal Recollections," and various speeches and literary addresses. He d. May 20, 1880, in Nashville, Tenn.
